KATANGA

UN Demands All Planes

(Times News Services)

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo—United Nations forces today seized control of another key town in Katanga province and warned they will destroy all Katangan planes which are not surrendered to the UN by Tuesday morning.

Tshombe Consults Welensky

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga province arrived today at Kopwezi, 220 miles west of Elisabethville, a Katanga government spokesman announced.

Tshombe flew into Kopwezi from Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, where he had talks with Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky of the Rhodesian Federation. He landed less than 24 hours after United Nations planes landed at Kopwezi airfield and reported they had destroyed air installations and a training plane.

In Salisbury Sunday, Tshombe warned that Katangans were ready to carry out a "scorched earth" campaign rather than submit to a political settlement imposed on them by force by the United Nations.

Despite his threat, the secessionist leader was given a guarantee of freedom in his province from the UN.

Tshombe said he planned to rally Katangan forces for a long struggle against the UN even though the world organization has gained the upper hand in fighting with Katangan troops.

In Salisbury tonight Welensky said Tshombe came to Salisbury to seek his advice on "certain matters."

SEATTLE (AP)—A proposal by British Columbia Premier Bennett "opens up a new avenue for exploration" of the deadlocked Columbia River power development issue, a power company spokesman here says.

L. E. Karrer, vice-president of the Puget Sound Power and Light Company, commenting on the suggestion made by Bennett Saturday, said:

"It certainly offers more room for negotiation than the five mills for power at the border. The five mills was impossible. The cost was prohibitive. Any other plan suggested is a step forward."

Mr. Bennett said at Kelowna his government would look at any formula which would build the proposed three big storage dams on the Columbia River in Canada, plus power facilities at Mica Creek, "at no cost to us."

He also told an interviewer his previous proposal for sale of Canada's share of downstream benefit Columbia power to the U.S. at five mills per kilowatt hour was not a rigid one.

A United States-Canada Columbia development treaty has been ratified by the United States, but not by Canada. Power officials say the three dams, by controlling floods, would allow more year-around power to be generated by dams in the United States and by the treaty terms Canada would get 50 per cent of the additional power.

"I wouldn't know if this alternative proposal is more feasible than the five mills," Karrer said.

"My feeling would be that a group, or groups, of utilities would see fit to get together to study the proposal. We are talking about hundreds of millions of dollars."

"I don't know what Premier Bennett's proposals would mean in terms of dollars, but a study would show that. Then, we would know if it will work."

WORK NEW YEAR'S DAY OR ELSE

Sassenachs Show Scots No Pity

CORBY, England (Reuters)—Thousands of Scots preparing to celebrate New Year's Eve in this central England town were warned today they will be fired if they do not turn up for work Tuesday.

New Year's Eve parties go on all night in Corby, often called "Little Scotland" because Scots make up 60 per cent of its population. Scotland has an official holiday New Year's Day but it's work as usual in the rest of Britain.

The manager of a Corby department store said: "When in Rome do as the Romans do. This is England, not Scotland. They've had Christmas off—and that should be enough."

"A Scottish building contractor said: 'I think their attitude is intolerable. I'd never expect a Scotsman to turn up after Hogmanay. It would be sacrilege.' Hogmanay is the traditional New Year's Eve celebration observed by most Scots."

We got purty close there, a coupla times...
But we never actually...

So Happy New Year.

Two City Longshoremen Die In Car Crash at Goldstream

DEATH-DEALING HIGHWAY STRETCH

Scene of second multiple traffic fatality in last 20 months is start of curve just before gate to Goldstream Park as northbound traveller approaches Malahat. (Times photo.)

8 Americans Hurt In Station Wagon

Two Victoria longshoremen were killed and eight visiting Americans hurt when their cars crashed almost head-on a few hundred yards from the Goldstream Park entrance to the Trans-Canada Highway at 6:30 Sunday night.

The dead are George Weaver, 37, of 1222 Goldstream, and Gunnar Isomaa, 44, of 3942 Braefoot, who were driving north in Isomaa's car when it crossed the highway and collided with a late-model station wagon containing two families from Seattle area.

The deaths bring to six the number of people killed in highway crashes near the Malahat and Langford area since Dec. 15.

A total of 30 persons have died in traffic crashes in the Greater Victoria area south of the Malahat this year.

Members of the families from Bothell, Wash., a Seattle suburb, are:

Joseph Duffy Warrior, 39, a lieutenant-commander from Sand Point U.S. Naval Air Station recruiting office, driver of a 1960 station wagon, who had a chest injury, and was discharged from hospital;

Mother Most Seriously Injured

Mrs. Wanda Lea Warrior, 37, admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with chest and face injury, a broken jaw and possible broken leg.

Kimberlea Warrior, 12, admitted to St. Joseph's with a broken nose and shoulder injury.

Kevin Warrior, 11 (a girl), admitted to hospital with face cuts.

Kristan Warrior, seven, (a girl), discharged with forehead injury.

Earl Kenyon, 46, admitted with face and head injury.

Mrs. Angela Kenyon, 38, admitted with serious left eye injury.

Laura Kenyon, six, abrasions, discharged.

Mrs. Kenyon is described by the hospital as most seriously injured. All are in satisfactory condition.

'Car Darted Across the Road'

Both the deceased had attended a meeting Sunday morning and were due to have returned to their homes at noon.

The accident happened at 6:30 p.m. and neither man, apparently, had been home in the interval.

Mrs. Isomaa, a nurse's aide at the hospital, was on duty when her husband was brought in.

Warrior told police today the two families in his car were returning to Victoria after a trip to Nanaimo.

"All of a sudden this car of me and I hit the brakes. I don't know whether I'd stopped or not when the impact came."

Police said there was no indication of speed. The pavement was wet, it was not raining and there was only a slight overcast.

"There was no reason for it. You can't blame the road," a policeman said.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said an inquiry would be held.

The vehicles collided almost head-on, causing total damage, according to estimates.

Near Spot Where Seamen Killed

They met almost on the same spot as an accident between a small car and beer-laden semi-trailer truck that claimed the lives of three naval seamen April 28, 1961.

Three ambulances and private cars took the dead and injured to hospital.

The wrecks left traffic tied up for nearly an hour, police said.

There were no seat belts in the 1958 model sedan driven by Isomaa.

Speed limit in the highway zone including Goldstream Park entrance is 40 miles an hour.

Weaver, a longshoreman about five years, leaves the widow, Yvonne H., and three sons, aged eight to 15, at home. Isomaa, a Finnish immigrant who came to Canada in 1951, had been a longshoreman about 10 years.

He leaves the widow, Aune, and two sons, Aekki, 17, and Keijo, 12, at home. There are his mother, five sisters and three brothers living in or near Jakobstad, Finland.

The Americans had been visiting Mrs. C. D. Macklin, 513 Head, whose daughter is Mrs. Kenyon.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

In a New Year greeting to Victoria and Vancouver Island, the Alcoholism Foundation of British Columbia offers this advice:

"Stay dry behind the wheel of your car, and stay out of other cars in the hands of anyone who has been drinking in recent hours.

"You don't have to be high or feel a glow to come within the bracket of 'impaired.' Evidence proves that your hazard rate increases by one for every drink consumed within the hour before driving.

"Remember, after three drinks your chances of having an accident are three times greater."

Victoria comedian-singer and impressionist Reg Stofor has been recalled to New York by popular demand.

Early this month he went there to tape two shows for the Ted Mack Amateur Hour. One of these, first performed before live studio audiences, was released over the CBS network Dec. 16. The second will be broadcast Jan. 13.

The write-in vote on the Dec. 16 performance was so enthusiastic that Reg has been recalled to make a third appearance.

The audience liked his two-voice act employing the song, "Make Believe," and this will be featured in the new performance.

Revisiting our fair city after an absence of 25 years, Harold Parkinson of Centralia, Wash., was shocked to find that Victoria policemen no longer wear the tall English bobby helmet.

"Why, they look like American cops," he complained.

We like the story of the Victoria College student who drove into a local gas station with a power mower sitting beside him on the passenger seat.

"Fitter up," he said. With a nod and a smile, the operator walked around to the gas tank, hose in hand.

"No, no," said the student, "not the car, the mower."

The operator collected 12 cents.

A HAPPY AND SAFE NEW YEAR TO EVERYONE

Outlook Optimistic In V.I. Employment

Labor surpluses due partly to the holiday season are reported in central to southern Vancouver Island centres in a year-end employment picture slightly better than in 1961.

National Employment Service officers in Duncan, Nanaimo and Courtenay are optimistic for a bright future in view of a comparatively high level of employment during the past few months.

Port Alberni was the exception, where a spokesman for NES said employment was unlikely to be different from this year.

Nanaimo officer Jack Clarke termed the fall "best in the last five years."

Construction has helped keep employment high, even though unemployment registered toward the end of December had gone through a slow buildup, he said.

Unemployed totals increased by 600 this month in Courtenay, mostly in the logging occupations, making 1,759 registered for work at year's end.

This figure, including 240 fishermen, is down "a couple of hundred" from last year, NES said.

At Duncan, NES officer Robbie Robinson reported unemployed at 1,170, or 116 fewer than in 1961.

There had been an increase of 325 registrations over the November total, again due mostly to logging shutdown during the holidays.

The officer was optimistic because of the good construction situation.

At the end of the year there were approximately 950 unemployed, compared with 997 last year and 1,465 in 1960. Of these, about 200 are fishermen.

Strike Record Claim Called 'Propaganda'

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (UFAW) Saturday termed as "mainly propaganda designed for an unsuspecting public" a Fisheries Association of B.C. charge that herring fishermen have the worst strike record in Canada.

The association said Friday it seemed that strikes each October and a four-week Christmas layoff now appear to be automatic in the herring fishery.

The union said while the association complained of an "automatic strike" it made no mention of the fact that it had adjourned negotiations 72 hours prior to expiration of the contract, "making a strike inevitable."

Herring fishermen were on strike from Oct. 16 to Nov. 30 this year, fished for 12 days and then went on a four-week Christmas layoff.

The union said the "four-week lay-up at Christmas was the association's idea."

"Formerly we used to have a two-week lay-up in mid-October and two weeks at Christmas. Now, they craftily want to chop off part of the lay-up with nothing to compensate in the contract."

The union added that "no mention is made of the fact that in 1956 fishermen received $13.25 per ton and today they only get $11.40 for reduction herring."

"They don't even list the lockout which they conducted from Dec. 16, 1959 to Nov. 18, 1960 to force a price cut of $4.20. The association conducted the lockout despite the existence of a two-year contract."

SPECIAL CLINICS SET TO BUILD BLOOD BANK

The Red Cross does not have enough reserves of blood in stock to meet the needs, and any emergencies that may arise, during the next two weeks.

Special blood donor clinics have been arranged to replace blood that was used for victims of highway and other accidents over the holidays.

One clinic will be held Thursday at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort St., between 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. and 7 and 9:30 p.m.

On Friday a clinic for naval personnel will be held from 9 to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. in the gymnasium of HMCS Venture.

Red Cross officials say there was no shortage of blood during the holidays. However, blood donated before the holiday has now become outdated and may only be used to make products such as fibrinogen and serum albumin that are used in treatment of the sick.

Hospitals need increased stocks because it is expected the New Year celebrations will result in more accidents that will produce further demands on already depleted supplies.

Columbia Ready For 'Second Look'

Premier Bennett said Saturday the B.C. government is ready to consider any formula which will enable it to go ahead with Columbia power development to achieve the main objective he has laid down in the past.

In a special interview the premier said: "Our government will always be known as a second-look government and the power development question is no exception."

He said he was referring specifically to the Columbia River scheme, and that "we are not going to stop the Peace River development."

The premier said he was willing to consider any formula of financing that would enable British Columbia to get the power from Columbia dams without cost to the province.

The premier said Canada, through firmness of the B.C. government, was in an excellent position some months ago "with a market in the U.S. for five-mill power sales."

But vacillation and delay by Ottawa was "costly because our strength was based on timing and now that advantage is gone."

The formula the premier has been working on is that the Americans should pay the equivalent of five mills per kilowatt for the downstream benefits they will receive from the big dams in B.C.

ALTERNATIVE

"Five mills would do it," he said, but he gave as alternatives, a straight cash grant from the U.S. "or any source," or a lower mill rate and a loan at a low enough interest rate.

"We'd take a second look at the Columbia at any formula that would give us our objectives," which he detailed as:

Three dams in British Columbia, at no cost to the province; 3,000,000 h.p. generated at Mica dam, at no cost to the province, and the sale of downstream-generated power on the American side.

Relief of Tax Worries Assured by Bennett

KELOWNA (CP)—B.C. municipal leaders, fearful of a huge boost in taxes next year, have been told by Premier Bennett not to worry about 1963 municipal finances.

He made the surprise statement to mayors and Reeves attending the opening of a new health centre here Friday.

In interviews Saturday some interpreted the statement to mean that the government may be preparing a new system of granting funds to municipalities.

Others felt the premier may be just playing politics.

Mr. Bennett injected the statement between assertions on provincial-federal co-operation in the field of health services in which he said the federal government should bring mental health under the wings of health services, cost of which is shared with the provinces.

During the last federal election campaign Mr. Bennett said the government would increase B.C.'s homeowner grant to $100 from the present $50 but at the same time would replace the present per capita grant to municipalities with grants in lieu of taxes. This latter statement brought strong protests from municipal governments which said the loss of revenue would have to be passed along to taxpayers in higher mill rates.

A municipal brief on the matter is to be presented to the cabinet early next month.

Mr. Bennett told the gathering: "Don't look so worried, you will have no financial worries or problems for the next year."

He did not elaborate.

Shipwrecked Fishermen Rescued

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (AP)—United States Coast Guard rescue crews defied howling winds and below-zero temperatures early today to bring ashore eight men stranded on board a fishing vessel aground near the entrance to Gloucester's inner harbor.

All eight fishermen, crew of the 70-foot dragger Katy D, were reported in good condition. Two coast guardsmen were taken to hospital suffering frostbite.

The wind blew 50 to 60 miles an hour and the temperature dipped to near 10 below-zero.

The Katy D had just returned from four days at sea and was only a few feet from her berth Sunday night when the trouble started.

The dragger's engine died and before the crew could do anything the powerful wind caught her and swept the vessel two miles across the harbor and up against rocks.

SURVIVORS DESCRIBE ORDEAL OF HORROR

Wrecked Car Prison for 12 Hours

CLINTON, B.C. (CP)—A dead 2½-year-old girl swung in the wreckage of an overturned car for 12 hours while her trapped father watched.

The baby's mother, suffering from a fractured spine, walked more than two miles over a snow-covered road in freezing weather to get help.

Another woman walked barefoot through snow while her husband and the father of the baby sat near his one-year-old infant in the car.

The harrowing tale was told Sunday by one of the survivors of an accident near Canoe Creek, 50 miles west of this community 60 miles northwest of Kamloops.

Kenneth Walker, 44, and his wife, 40, were in a car with the family of Mr. and Mrs. William Roberts when it went off the highway on a bend during a blinding snowstorm and plunged 100 feet down a bank.

WEDGED

The car overturned on the way down and wedged itself between two trees.

Catherine Roberts was killed. RCMP and Mr. Walker were not sure how she was suspended over her father.

Mr. Walker said the two women were trapped for several hours but eventually managed to extricate themselves. Mrs. Roberts found a truck driver who went for help.

Hospital authorities at Ashcroft, south of here, where the survivors were in good condition would not permit interviews. Later they changed the decision and permitted an interview with Mr. Walker.

He said: "We were on our way home from Williams Lake (60 miles north of here) where we had spent the Christmas holidays and had stopped off at Clinton to buy some groceries.

OVER EDGE

"We came up to this corner and just didn't make it. We just went over the edge. The only thing I remember was my wife, who sitting on my right with a suitcase of clothes and a couple of bags of groceries on her other side, grabbed a hold of me.

"I saw a bunch of bright lights. I don't know where they came from—they might have come when my head crashed through the window... the car rolled over and ended upside down between the trees.

British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority

The next thing I remember was coming to and hearing Mrs. Roberts moaning in the front. She was asking someone to get her leg out—it must have been trapped somewhere. Then I heard her say 'the baby's gone.'

USED TRUCK

The police said they used a truck to pull away one of the trees. Then they dragged out the wreck and pried open the doors to release the men and the infant girl.

Dr. Howard Lynnes said Sunday it will be hard to tell for some days whether the frostbite will leave any serious permanent damage. But he doesn't think they will lose any fingers or toes.

Mrs. Roberts' spinal cord was not injured "but she was darn lucky she didn't collapse."

Mr. Roberts, 26, has a broken knee and broken arm.

V.I. ROUNDUP

Stiffer Fines Face Speeding Truckers

DUNCAN—A warning that stiffer penalties will be imposed on truckers found guilty of speeding on Lake Cowichan Road has been issued by Magistrate Colin L. Anderson in police court.

The warning came after he fined chipper truck driver Clayton G. Thorne of Duncan, $25 for speeding on the road. Several complaints had been received concerning the dangerous manner in which truck drivers operate on the highway, the magistrate said.

RCMP said Thorne had been clocked by a Lake Cowichan "ghost car" as travelling between 58 and 60 miles per hour in a 45-mile-an-hour zone.

LAKE COWICHAN—Donald Caplin, Youbou, pleaded guilty in police court Saturday to careless driving and was fined $20.

RCMP said the accused had been involved in an accident a week ago.

COURTENAY—No inquest will be held into the death of a long-time Deep Bay resident whose body was found Saturday in his house trailer home. Arthur Charles Pickles, 51, a commercial fisherman, had complained of heartburn Friday night after lifting heavy sacks during an oyster hunt with friends.

He refused to see a doctor but appeared to be resting comfortably at 2:30 a.m. Saturday when neighbors checked on his condition. Later Saturday, they found him dead.

Coroner Thomas Menzies said today an inquiry attributed the cause to heart trouble.

Pickles leaves his 88-year-old parents at Union Bay and other relatives at Union Bay and Powell River.

ALBERNI—Financial difficulties may force the closure of Alberni Athletic Hall, an institution which has been in operation for more than 30 years.

Financial problems followed stoppage of the association's bingo games by RCMP on Dec. 13. No charges yet been laid.

Hall maintenance and debt payments depended on the bingo games.

An official of the association said $800 a month is needed for operating expenses and payment of debt scheduled for retirement in three years.

had fallen to 22 below zero, six degrees below the record for the day set in 1953. Winter's full force hit the eastern section of the United States during the weekend. Below-zero temperatures were reported today in many spots.

High-velocity winds tore down power lines, may have swept a youth off a ferryboat and overturned a motorboat whose operator drowned.

The powerful gusts literally blew a river from its bed, stranding numerous boats.

The wintry blast also brought fresh accumulations of snow in some places.

Bangor, Me., had at least 21 inches of new snow on top of the 15 inches previously fallen. Howling winds piled drifts as high as 20 feet. Bangor, with a population of 50,000, was "just about paralyzed," according to one reporter.

The Bangor Daily News failed to publish its morning paper today for the first time since 1899.

New York City experienced four-degree temperatures today, equalling the year's lowest reading.

The mercury fell below zero elsewhere, including a low reading Sunday night of 38 below atop Mount Washington in New Hampshire's White Mountains.

The storm apparently claimed the lives of nine men today aboard a sand and gravel tug that sank in churning seas off the north shore of Long Island.

Two of the sheep were killed in the attack, and four others had to be destroyed by their owner, C. O. Myers, 9035 East Saanich Road.

The dogs were shot by RCMP and Mr. Myers.

PORT ALBERNI—A proposal that graduating students wear caps and gowns at graduation ceremonies was voted down by grade 12 pupils at Alberni District Secondary School.

Principal W. F. Ramsay announced at an assembly in the school's auditorium 41 students had voted in favor of the proposal and 90 against it.

A majority of parents was in favor of the proposal.

SIDNEY—Funeral services were held today at Sands Funeral Chapel of Roses for Mrs. Elizabeth Gertrude McIntyre, widow of the former Sidney Review publisher Hugh John McIntyre.

She died suddenly in New Westminster Dec. 26 at the age of 69.

SIDNEY—Waterfront property adjacent to the Beacon Avenue wharf in Sidney has been acquired by Slegg Bros. Lumber Ltd. for an apartment block and marina development.

The property, bought from George Gray, contains eight acres, although only 2½ acres are available for development. The remainder lies beneath the water. It is one of the few properties in Canada where the line runs out to the sea.

The area was originally part of the old Sidney Mill.

SANTA CLAUS NEWSBOY IN DISGUISE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Irene McKenna received a wallet for Christmas—so she gave her old one to newspaper carrier Brian Ferguson.

Sunday night 12-year-old Brian knocked on Mrs. McKenna's door.

"Look in the secret compartment," he said as he returned the gift.

It contained $125—money Mrs. McKenna had placed in it a year ago and forgotten.

Panel Urged To Screen Promotions

An arbitration board at the weekend rejected a city "outside staff" union grievance but recommended a new system by City Hall of screening promotion applicants with a three-man interviewing panel.

The union had protested the promotion of a 17-year man to foreman over the application of a 27-year man who had done the work as a relief foreman. But the arbitration board unanimously upheld the city's decision on the grounds of better qualifications.

However, the board said that the city was wrong in not fully informing the applicants of all responsibilities included in the job.

RCN Plans Anti-Sub Hydrofoil

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has given the navy authority to proceed with construction of a prototype 200-ton anti-submarine hydrofoil boat, officials said Sunday.

Authorities associated with 12 years of Canadian research in this field said the project may be a turning point in the history of surface fleets.

A hydrofoil would have twice the speed of a destroyer. Hydrofoils are stills which raise a vessel out of the water when the craft picks up speed. A hydrofoil boat can thus avoid the heavy buffeting of rough seas which reduces speed.

De Havilland Aircraft Limited Downsview, Ont., recently completed a $260,000 hydrofoil feasibility study for the defence department to top off a dozen years of research with hydrofoils by the defence research board.

The navy has been given funds in its 1963-64 budget to begin work on the project.

TO DELAY CONTRACT

A navy spokesman said a construction contract for the prototype won't be let immediately. The navy first wanted to study what detection equipment and weapons could be carried in a 200-ton boat. Once the practicability of the boat as a weapons carrier was proved, construction of a weaponless prototype for sea trials would begin.

It is believed that the navy would use hydrofoils in a "grasshopper" technique—that is, lower sonar detection gear into the ocean to listen for submarines, then lift at high speed to a new listening location. The naval research establishment at Dartmouth, N.S., an arm of the defence research board, experimented with the Massachusetts, a 45-foot 5½-ton hydrofoil boat, for several years. Later, it carried on further extensive trials with the Bras d'Or, a 59-foot, 17½-ton hydrofoil. Her hull rides completely above the surface at about 20 knots with a clearance of 3½ feet at maximum speed.

The Uneasy World

ONLY MAN'S CALENDAR AND the physical seasons separate one year from another. Human events flow on without interruption. Tonight, as 1962 ends, we can see that its greatest event will condition 1963, for better, or worse. That event, of course, was the first direct confrontation of nuclear-power sufficient, on both sides, to destroy civilization.

The Cuban episode brought mankind within whispering distance of suicide and it also revealed a basic shift in the world's balance of power. It is far too early to reckon the consequences of the American decision to stand firm at the imminent risk of war and the Russian decision to withdraw its weapons from the western hemisphere but those consequences will be profound.

On the one hand, the United States, now demonstrably the strongest power in nuclear terms, is committed to a firm but by no means an inflexible line of policy. On the other, Russia, apparently convinced that nuclear war would be "lunacy," has been weakened by a shattering quarrel in the Communist empire.

Unpredictable Effects

These facts having been revealed at least partially in Cuba, we may be sure that the breach between Moscow and Peking will affect the whole course of the new year in many strange, unpredictable ways and not necessarily, as seems too glibly assumed, to the advantage of the West. For 1962 also revealed China as the world's most aggressive power; its revolution in both a primitive and desperate stage, its rulers ready to attack a neutral India and antagonize the uncommitted nations of Asia and Africa regardless of cost.

As this year ends the battle lines of the Himalayas are quiet, but for how long? If, as the Indian press reports, the Chinese are building up for another offensive when the weather improves we may soon see a border war resumed and threatening to become a great war.

Nor can there be any assurance that the ferment of Africa, bubbling afresh around Katanga's capital, will be contained, or that pressures building up behind tied-down safety valves elsewhere on that continent will not explode.

Peace, almost broken in 1962, will remain an acute hazard in 1963. During its present phase of general madness the human family must continue to live on the edge of the cauldron and under these conditions the West dare not live without its power of deterrence.

Whether, as competent observers like Mr. Walter Lippmann seem to believe, all these threats and alarms mask a Russian attempt to find a real accommodation with the West the new year may begin to indicate. But of this prospect the disarmament stalemate and the continuation of dangerous nuclear tests give no sign.

Yet the old year has produced much more than negative human folly. Barring war, future historians may reckon 1962 as a constructive and decisive turning point in man's affairs.

Two parallel and interdependent movements have offered the chance of unifying the nations of the Atlantic basin where most of the world's wealth is created and where the principle of freedom is centred.

Lengthy Negotiations

President Kennedy's tariff initiative will require at least another year of negotiation, possibly two, but it is definitely under way after the largest change in American commercial policy ever undertaken since the nation began.

Britain ends the year in the middle of a similar decision but today it is much less certain than it seemed to be six months ago that the European Common Market can bridge the English Channel.

Immense technical difficulties have arisen in the Brussels negotiations and, at the same time, the Macmillan government has suffered grave reverses in British politics. Within the next few months we should know whether the government's policy of joining the continental community, as the first stage in the creation of a transatlantic community, can succeed or not. Either way, the business of the free world will be drastically altered before the next year ends.

But clearly more than tariffs or bread-and-butter questions now concerns the Atlantic nations. As indicated at his recent conference with Mr. Macmillan, President Kennedy is attempting to amalgamate the high policies of the United States, Britain and western Europe, to prevent a profitless nuclear competition between friends, to recast and strengthen the grand alliance.

His plan to establish collective NATO control of the ultimate weapon is a far-reaching and hopeful departure but it encounters at once the central fact of European power, which is President de Gaulle.

That towering and mysterious figure has used the last year to liquidate the Algerian war, to establish himself as the elected dictator of France and to bestride the continent like a colossus. On the rock of his stubborn grandeur, though it cannot last for many years, all the plans of Britain and the United States can certainly founder, with results beyond calculation.

Perhaps science, itself a purveyor to the war gods, held out the most hope for peaceful progress. Further barriers to space travel fell as the Russians put two men into orbit simultaneously—one of them for a record 94 hours—and the United States followed its first orbital flight in February with two others later in the year. A new venture was the Telstar launching by the United States, making possible reflected transmission of telephone and television signals across the Atlantic. An American space-probe vehicle passed near Venus as the year drew to a close, sending back information yet to be analyzed and opening up a whole new field of space exploration.

In the events of 1962, good and bad, Canada played a dismal and humiliating part. This perhaps was inevitable when the Canadian electorate voted no-confidence in any political party and, since last June, the nation has lacked a government truly able to govern.

Moreover, after five years of financial disorder, Canada's exchange crisis of midsummer brought it to the edge of bankruptcy. While the depleted hard-currency reserves were rapidly replenished, the foreign money thus returning was for the most part short-term speculation encouraged by the government's promise of budgetary reform and it can be withdrawn without notice if the promise is not fulfilled.

Despite a high rate of economic growth, mainly the result of prosperity in the United States, none of Canada's basic problems was solved, or even seriously approached this year. All vital decisions were postponed until the government could produce the long-promised "long-term" remedies in a new budget.

Its introduction shortly will show whether the government is ready at last to face hard decisions and whether the present Parliament is ready to support it. If not, the budget could plunge Canada into a general election by spring.

Canada's year ends in such a state of confusion—no clear financial policy, no real policy on defence, and no party in control of a fractured Parliament—that an election can be delayed only at the cost of continuing weak government. This, in short has been a bad year for Canada, whatever the current economic figures may say, a year of unprecedented political flux from which an entirely new situation must crystallize before the new year is very old.

In British Columbia the stirrings of the same flux could be detected as the government of Premier Bennett received its first intimations of mortality from the voters of Point Grey.

Prior to this electoral disaster the government apparently was meditating a spring election to secure a safe mandate before Mr. Fulton's curious adventure can get off the ground. A daunting political climate and the failure of the Conservative Party in Point Grey may have delayed an election indefinitely but no one can foresee the strategy of Mr. Bennett, perhaps not even Mr. Bennett himself.

Further confusion

Whatever his political intentions, Mr. Bennett has pressed on with his Peace River power development project, uncertain as its financing may be. The result has been further confusion about the Columbia, whose future now, as a year ago, remains very much in the air.

In Victoria the year marked the suitably celebrated 100th birthday of the city, saw groundwork done for a splendid new city hall precinct and square and revealed a surging vitality.

Kidding the other fellow creates problems; kidding yourself delays the solution indefinitely.

Take all this Berlin business, for instance. Everybody says the big thing is to get the Germans reunited. This is supposed to be the goal for both sides. Yet the Russians don't really want it and we don't want it, and I'll bet by now a lot of Germans themselves don't want it. But of course nobody admits this to anybody else. Would you please settle the Berlin problem in a few words? Then take disarmament. Everybody

"... Happy New Year, Victor! ... Victor! ... Victor! ... Victor? ..."

A Year-End Look at the Main Political Theatre

DURING the past month I have been to London, Paris, Bonn, Brussels and Rome seeking to understand what is going on within the Western Alliance. It was soon evident that the political climate is rather like that of the year before a Presidential election. The big international issues are British entry into the Common Market, American relations with NATO, and Western relations with the Soviet Union. These issues cannot at present be disentangled clearly from domestic politics.

Lippmann

This is certainly true in Great Britain, where the Macmillan government is facing elections in which foreign policy, and particularly the question of joining with the Common Market, are hot issues. It is true no less of West Germany where there is no clear successor to the Adenauer regime.

It is true of Italy where the elections next spring will have great significance for the question, which is a European question, of whether Christian Democrats and Democratic Socialists can together form a stable government.

No Dispute

As for France, the elections have already taken place, and there is no dispute about the position of Gen. de Gaulle for the next few years. Nevertheless, the French future is not at all clearly defined. For Gen. de Gaulle is leading a constitutional revolution which has no clear program and his government depends on him personally, not on a popular mandate.

The Gaullist movement is one of the great facts of life all over Western Europe. But because it is essentially a revolution against the conception of representative democracy, it is as yet an incalculable force.

With the exception of Gaullist France, the principal European governments are negotiating from weakness. In all of them the situation is fluid. Nobody can now foresee who will be in office two years hence, and what will be the form of the parties and factions which compose his government.

This is, I think, the key fact in the momentous negotiations—the word is not too strong—which are turning around the British application to join the European Economic Community. The essence of the matter becomes clearer if we are careful to think of the European Community rather than of its popular but misleading name, the Common Market.

The crucial question is whether Britain is to join a European political community and not whether it is to buy and sell in a bigger market.

Political Entity

The European Economic Community has its capital in Brussels, and it is above everything else a political institution. It is the rudimentary living embryo of a new political entity. It was promoted by men and it is now run by men from the nations of Western continental Europe which were first or last of all defeated and occupied in the Second World War.

The purpose of these men of the European Community is not merely to promote mass production in a big market but to establish a new Europe which will carry on and promote the old European civilization. The European Community is moved by high aspirations, and the decisive question about the British entry is whether Britain does and can share these aspirations.

The Common Market is to the new European Community what Alexander Hamilton's fiscal measures were to the new American republic. It provides the material bonds on which the political structure is being built.

The continental Europeans think of themselves as the real Europeans, and they are beset by the belief that the British purpose is not to become part of their new Europe but to share a rich market and also to gain a political foothold in order to take a leading part in the international policies of the continent.

This is, I think, a correct description of the feeling inside the European Community of men who are much at odds with Gen. de Gaulle about the future of the Community. They are aligned with him in wishing that they did not have at this moment to take on the British government as a member.

But however inconvenient the timing of the British application, the continent must deal with it now. For if the British are to play a part in Europe, they must be present during the crucial period when de Gaulle works out his relations with post-Adenauer Germany.

This is not only a British reason for persisting. For while no one can at the moment say whether or not the British application will fail, while the opposing reasons and influences are strong, there are also strong reasons, though not widely advertised ones, why continental Europeans may prove to be right who say rather mournfully that "we are doomed to succeed."

The outward and visible sign of these less obvious forces is that even those who would like to stop Britain's entry never say so. The policy of the continentalists who are opposed to it is to insist on the unconditional acceptance of the Treaty of Rome (the legal charter of the Common Market) and of the agreements already made under it by the six continental members. They reject the idea that someone wishing to join a "club" should negotiate the terms and conditions of his membership.

Two Results

The strict constructionists count on one of two results. The first is that the British electorate will rebel at the humiliations imposed upon them and reject the idea of membership. In this case, it will not be France which refused the British application. It will be Britain which withdrew it.

The other result would be that if Britain agrees to unconditional entry, she will enter Europe without what Gen. de Gaulle calls her "caravan"—the Commonwealth, remnants of the old empire, the European neutrals, and most particularly that special relationship which exists between Britain and the United States.

Why, we may ask, do those who for perfectly respectable and rational reasons oppose British entry adopt so indirect a line of policy? The reason, I believe, is that the failure of Britain to enter the European Community would cause a deep and incalculable shock within the Community.

It is a mistake to think of the Community as stable and strong in dealing with a weak opponent. For one thing, the Community is, as I have already suggested, fragile. For another thing there are powerful interests in Europe which give Britain much important influence.

Trading Interests

The fragility of the Community is most evident in the fact that West Germany and the Netherlands and Belgium have strong economic trading interests which reach beyond the existing Common Market into the British overseas world.

The next Chancellor of Germany, for example, may be Dr. Erhard, and he is an opponent of a closed, restrictive, protectionist, anti-British "Europe." Indeed, from what I learned in Bonn, all the leading men who will govern Germany after Adenauer are warm partisans of British membership. They will not be docile members of the European Community without Great Britain.

Moreover, beyond the European economic interests which favor British entry, there are important currents of political thought and feeling which are pro-British.

The more authoritarian Gaullist France becomes, the more attraction there will be between the European centre-parties and the British example of parliamentary government. I found this to be very strong in Italy and in West Germany.

Consequently, I would venture to think that if Britain stays outside and Gaullism predominates on the continent, there will be reaction and high tension coming from all the Europeans on the continent who do not wish to submit again to authoritarian rule.

A FEW THINGS ON MY MIND

Let's Get Them Settled and Start the New Year Right

DEAR ABBY:

At the bottom of your column each day you advise anybody who has a problem to write to you and you will provide an answer. You will even send a confidential reply if requested. Well, Abby, I have a lot of things on my mind. I don't know if you can solve them all, but whatever you can do doesn't need to be confidential. You can just answer right out in public, because I believe a lot of other people are wrestling with the same problems that bother me. The year-end seems a good time to get these things settled, then I can start the new year off without a care in the world. Anyway, here are some of the things that need answers:

Tobin

Basically, I guess I'm dissatisfied with people, both in the mass and individually. Everywhere you look in the world, wherever there's trouble people seem to be at the bottom of it. It would be bad enough if everybody was just kidding the other fellow, but nowadays everybody is also kidding himself.

Kidding the other fellow creates problems; kidding yourself delays the solution indefinitely. Take all this Berlin business, for instance. Everybody says the big thing is to get the Germans reunited. This is supposed to be the goal for both sides. Yet the Russians don't really want it and we don't want it, and I'll bet by now a lot of Germans themselves don't want it. But of course nobody admits this to anybody else. Would you please settle the Berlin problem in a few words? Then take disarmament. Everybody is for disarmament. Of course. But nobody wants to go right out and disarm. This would lay them wide open to attack, and nobody would listen to them at the conferences. So instead of disarming, or admitting they don't really want to disarm, everyone bogs the thing down in arguments about how it should be done. Both sides have been doing this so long they believe themselves now. So would you please straighten all this out and settle the disarmament question? And then there's this Congo thing.

It's been going on quite a while now and of course everybody wants it solved. The Belgians were to blame, of course, for not getting the natives ready for independence. Everybody knows that. And then there is this fellow Tsombe, breaking away from the rest and taking the only money-making resources with him. They could pull him into line over the weekend by having the big mines stop his revenue. Everybody admits that. So why don't they? Is it because some of the big countries are interested in the mines? Some of the others won't even pay their United Nations share to keep the peace. And meanwhile the shooting has started again. I'd be glad if you would take a look at this, Abby, and tell me how to settle it.

You'll have noticed all this fuss about Britain joining the Common Market. Seems all the members want her but won't let her in. The Commonwealth countries don't want to lose their sales to Britain, but of course they don't want to have to buy too much British goods in return. And Britain pretends joining isn't going to make much difference to anybody, including herself, but naturally the only reason she's going in is that there have to be some changes soon or there'll be worse problems than ever. Some of the best kidding of all is going on in connection with this business. It needs an answer fairly soon, so could you please oblige?

And finally, dear Abby, there's Canada. The government's kidding the people it's a government, and kidding itself too; kidding about having a real defence policy, kidding about encouraging trade, kidding about unemployment, kidding about finances. Boy! The Liberals trying to get the Conservatives out, but not over an issue they might get back in on. The Socialists buying time and making everybody else pay for it. The NDP pretending they can get the farmers and labor to march together in opposite directions. We're all a great bunch of kidders, Abby, but if you would just explain all this to us, give us the answers and get us on the right track again it would be very nice.

I realize you may be busy over the holidays, so don't hurry. If you could just give us an answer to everything some time next week, that would be fine.

Sincerely yours,
B. A. TOBIN.

Bodily Effects of Grief

Hundreds of times I have had a woman come into my office complaining of a vague abdominal pain, or a headache, or a miserably feeling all over, or an indigestion, much sleeplessness, or great feelings of fatigue. Often my assistants, on receiving from the X-ray man the report that a gallstone was present, perhaps in a normally functioning gall-bladder, were satisfied that the cause of the distress had been found.

Alvarez

But in scores of such cases, a question or two showed that the gallstone was "silent" and had never caused either pain or indigestion. What then was the trouble? Often all I had to do to find out was to ask, "Why do you look so sad? What terribly distressing thing recently happened to you; what broke your heart, or what great sorrow or disappointment or great loss or worry came to you?"

Commonly, the woman (or man) has then told me of a disaster that ushered in the symptoms. Perhaps she learned her husband had lost his love for her and wanted a divorce, or he had taken to drinking so much he was going to lose his job, or her daughter had come home with a baby and no husband, or the brain of her adored granddaughter had not developed as it should, or her grandson had taken to stealing cars and getting himself arrested.

Sometimes in these cases the first and best thing the wise physician can do is to save the woman from an unnecessary operation. The next thing to do is to try to give her the hope and courage with which to pick up and try to carry on again. Perhaps I can induce her to go back to being "social" again, and perhaps I can get her to think again of others besides herself.

Sometimes I can talk her out of just sitting and brooding. If she is full of sorrow for a loved one who perhaps dropped dead, I may be able, by answering patiently all of her questions, to get her to see that it is worse than useless to spend her days trying to figure out how she could have avoided the death—by doing this or not doing that. I try to get the woman to stop blaming herself and to see that what happened could not possibly have been avoided—that in no way can she be held at fault, and hence she must stop feeling guilty. If I can only get the woman to stop analyzing her problem, and to go back to living sensibly and usefully, I can cure her pain, her insomnia, and her feelings of illness.

Especially when there is a religious angle to her grief, I wish that my patient could have the help of my wise and kindly friend, that very able hospital chaplain, the Rev. Granger E. Westberg of the University of Chicago. Dr. Westberg tells how when first we are bowled over by grief, we go into a state of shock; then we express emotion; we feel guilty, some of us, without justification, fill up with feelings of hostility and resentment, which do us much harm. Perhaps for a while we are unable to work; then if we are wise we will struggle to face reality again and to adjust to it. We must find hope, and with it we must carry on.

Dr. Westberg has noticed that a mature religious faith helps many of us to go through a terrible experience, and to get back to a useful life again. On those rare occasions when I feel greatly depressed, the sure cure is to go into my office and struggle to help someone who is troubled. When I succeed in cheering him up, I find my own depression is gone.

Indians Demand Mine Jobs

WINNIPEG (CP)—An Indian chief Sunday threatened to call on his people for a mass protest march on a Manitoba nickel mine if talks fail to provide jobs there for Indians.

Chief Gilbert Macdonald of the Nelson House reserve said in a prepared statement: "The big nickel mine at Thompson is the only place we have for our people to work at present."

Nelson House is 40 miles from the International Nickel Company Mine at Thompson, 400 miles north of Winnipeg.

Three-way talks between provincial, federal and company officials aimed at setting up a work program for Indians at the mine are scheduled for Jan. 8 in Ottawa.

"We hope the meeting at Ottawa will be successful," Mr. Macdonald said, "and that conditions for the northern Indians will improve instead of getting worse."

If the Ottawa talks fail, he said, he will call on 16,000 northern Indians and Metis (halfbreeds) to converge on Thompson asking for jobs.

This move, he said, would create many hardships for Indians and the government, but if International Nickel will not co-operate, steps in this direction will be necessary.

Mr. Macdonald issued the statement before leaving for Nelson House after a weekend conference with government officials on Indian problems.

He came to Winnipeg Friday with Premier Duff Roblin who flew to Thompson earlier for an on-the-spot investigation of reports of Indian distress at Nelson House.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Migrants Favor Australia

LONDON—Bumped into a friend who is in advertising and he mentioned that he had just been to a conference on world-wide advertising sponsored by America's ABC International Television.

"You've got quite a television station there in Toronto, it seems," he said to me.

He showed me the booklet put out by ABC International for the conference and I read: "In Canada we have formed an association with one of the most dynamic stations in the Northern Hemisphere—CFMT-TV in Toronto."

I told him yes, I'd heard of CFMT.

Apparently the changing face of London doesn't displease everybody. A commentator in the weekly Spectator writes: "The London skyline has altered more drastically in the last five years than it did throughout the previous 50 years. For myself, I find this exhilarating and I welcome the appearance of tall towers rising over the low lines of London's sprawl."

"I have some sympathy for those visiting New Yorkers who express their horror at the changes in London's skyline far more vehemently than our own most ferocious critics, but I don't see why we should live in a museum just to please them."

Exodus—There has been a dramatic increase in migration to Australia. Ten times more people headed for Down-Under this November compared to the same month last year—10,000 of them, as against fewer than 1,000 in November, 1961.

And the authorities both here and in Australia are baffled as far as explaining it is concerned. Australia House put forward motives such as the weather, easy credit advanced to immigrants to Australia and better opportunities for children. But these are stock reasons unvarying over the years.

Some reasons frequently quoted by this new batch of emigrants are: unemployment, fear of the Common Market, black immigration into Britain and (as Dean Acheson would probably be pleased to learn) "this country's had it, mate."

If the December figures continue this trend, high on the list of reasons for getting out of here will be "weather." During the smog visitation of early this month Barry McQueen, one of Britain's top TV newscasters, announced that he was throwing up his job to go back to where he came from: Australia. No job lined up there—but clean air and sunshine in abundance.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

More Pleasure for Less Work

Flowering pot plants in the home are one of the delights of winter even in our favored area, and most of us like to continue enjoying them in subsequent years.

Some are more difficult than others to maintain but cyclamens and azaleas probably give more pleasure for less work than any.

As with most house plants in winter, the amount of water and the frequency of watering is important, yet cannot be measured by the cup or the calendar.

Cyclamens require watering only when the top soil becomes somewhat dry. The pot should then be filled to the brim with water, allowing it to soak slowly through the soil. After a couple of hours, the saucer or dish below should be emptied of surplus water.

Azaleas in the house during winter can scarcely be overwatered unless they are constantly standing in it. They need both moisture around the roots and humidity around the leaves and stems.

In average home temperatures, water may be given to azaleas each day, unless there is a surplus in the catch-saucer.

Poinsettias are trickier to handle since they resent changes of atmosphere and also any type of moving air—either hot or cold. This eccentricity appears unreasonable to those who have seen these flamboyant beauties thriving outdoors in southern California where an occasional light frost and winds have no damaging effects.

When they are raised in heated greenhouses, as is necessary to satisfy the Christmas shopper in the north, poinsettias are temperamental—even as we would be if subjected to tropical heat in lieu of our more invigorating climate.

Yet poinsettias can be kept over from one year to the next by allowing them a dormant period after the leaves have yellowed and fallen.

For our climate here, we advise the home gardener to leave them dry in the pot from about the end of January until the beginning of April. Then bring them back into a sunny warm window, cut back each stem to about four inches and begin watering sparingly.

Just as new growth begins, repot into a humusy, sandy soil if it is to be grown as a large plant. If cuttings are to be taken for rooting as new plants, repotting of the old one need not be done, but the rooted cuttings are kept growing vigorously all summer in pots of rich compost.

IT WAS TOUGH DAY FOR Y.A.

Charging Green Bay defensive linemen made it uncomfortable afternoon for New York Giants quarterback Y. A. Tittle as Packers tripped Giants 16-7 in Sunday's National Football League final. Tittle failed to get this pass away as his arm was hooked by Green Bay's Willie Davis (87) while Bill Quinlan charged in from left. Giant blockers are Joe Morrison (40) and Roosevelt Brown (79).

Nitschke's Bold Moves Hold Green Bay Aloft

Packer Lineman Judged Most Valuable Player

NEW YORK (AP)—Green Bay did it again. Only this time it was closer.

Vince Lombardi's Packers did not humiliate New York Giants Sunday in their 16-7 victory at frigid Yankee Stadium as they had done in their 37-0 rout last New Year's Eve in Green Bay. The net result was the same, though. The Packers still are champions of the National Football League.

The story of the game is told best by the voting for the most valuable player, No. 1. Vince Lombardi's Packers did not humiliate New York Giants Sunday in their 16-7 victory at frigid Yankee Stadium as they had done in their 37-0 rout last New Year's Eve in Green Bay. The net result was the same, though. The Packers still are champions of the National Football League.

Nitschke recovered a Phil King fumble on the Giants' 28 late in the second period with the Packers holding a perilous 3-0 lead. Two plays later, after a 21-yard pass from Hornung to Boyd Dowler, Taylor charged into the end zone on a 7-yard burst for Green Bay's only touchdown. Earlier, Nitschke deflected a Tittle pass that was intercepted by Dan Currie.

Shortly after the Giants scored their only touchdown when Erich Barnes blocked Max McGee's punt and rookie Jim Collier of Arkansas recovered in the end zone, Nitschke swung into action again in the third period. He pounced on the ball on the Giants' 42 when Sam Hornier fumbled a punt. Five plays later Jerry Kramer kicked the second of his three field goals. The kicks traveled 26, 29 and 30 yards.

"You couldn't throw the long one on a day like this," said coach Allie Sherman of the Giants, whose club won the Eastern Conference title on the passing of Tittle. "Of course, it was the game for them."

It was 20 degrees at game time. The weather soon turned for the worse, dropping to 17 with a 20-mile-an-hour wind blowing passes, punts, hats, and even the Packers' bench (unoccupied) across the frozen turf. "The Giants are much, much better," said Lombardi, comparing the 1962 team with the 1961 club. "You just can't compare the two games."

GIANTS DEFIANT
Sam Huff, the Giants' middle linebacker who, like all members of both defensive units, played a fine game, had this comment:

"They are a good ball club but they can be beaten. They only scored one touchdown. Hell, the defense has to have someone on its side. You don't win the world championship without scoring some points."

The only points the Giants scored were turned in by the defense on the blocked punt by Barnes and the recovery by Collier.

The Giants stopped the first Packer drive in the first quarter and forced Lombardi to settle for a field goal. Then New York started to move with Tittle hitting Del Shofner twice and then King before Currie broke it up with an interception on the one-yard line and ran back to the 40.

Although the Packers led all the way, the Giants were in the game until Kramer kicked his third field goal with only 1:50 to play.

PUNT CALL CRUCIAL
There was some second guessing of Sherman when on a fourth-and-three situation on the Giants' 45 with the score 13-7, he ordered a punt. He explained that there were almost eight minutes to play and he wanted to keep the pressure on the Packers to move the ball. The Packers did just that and got down close enough for the final field goal that clinched the game.

Each Packer gets $5,888.57 and each Giant $4,168.85 from the gross gate of $1,243,110, all records.

Victoria Edged In Midget Final
VANCOUVER (CP)—Two New Westminster teams emerged with a trophy each Saturday night in the B.C. midget hockey championships.

The "A" team squashed Delta 14-0 to win the "A" title, while the "C" team edged Victoria 2-1 to win its division.

In the consolation "B" finals, Victoria and North Shore tied 3-3 after two periods of overtime. The game was called a tie and left unfinished.

PURDY TRIMPHS
Bill Purdy, calling the turns for John Williams, Al Marion and Audrey Derik, defeated Gar Taylor 10-4 to claim "B" event honors. Pete McIntyre took the "C" event prize with a 10-9 conquest of Milt Michaels' quartet. McIntyre was supported by Dick Thompson, Ben Lang and Jack Graham.

Gordon's rink downed Bob Cato's entry in the main event final at Esquimalt Sports Centre Saturday night. Wally Kowalski, Joe Iannarelli and Susan Hansen supported Gordon.

Scotty Russell downed Buck Rogers in an all-Navy fight for "B" event honors while Ed defeated Layfield in the "C" final.

NHL'S BIG SEVEN
Saskatoon, New York, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Montreal, and Toronto are the seven teams in the NHL's Big Seven.

Saskatoon will meet the same team in their next game New Year's night in Kladno.

A sellout crowd of 11,000 watched the Chomutov game but only 5,000 turned out in Prague. Cetecka blamed the low attendance on the "fact that the Canadians had piled up a bad reputation during their tour this time."

Cetecka said 13 penalties were given to the Canadian side while the Czechs had only five.

WELL, ALMOST

NEW YORK (AP)—For a time Sunday, New York may not have been even the second largest state in the Union. It was 'travellers' time for hundreds of pro football fans who headed to areas of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut to escape the 75-mile television blackout of the National Football League championship game between Green Bay Packers and New York Giants.

Hostelries in all three states reported a considerable influx of patrons who hopped into their cars, chartered buses and trains to get to places where the telecast of the championship game would be carried.

In southern New Jersey, motels reported standing room only. Several tavern owners installed special antennas to pick up the telecast from Philadelphia. The New Haven Arena in Connecticut held a barbecue at $4.50 a head, served hot dogs and soda, and put on a large screen showing of the football game as a bonus. Motels in Connecticut also were packed, with groups from New York driving up for an afternoon around the TV set.

"I hope my son got to Philadelphia okay," said a midtown New York elevator operator before the game. "We live only half a block from Yankee Stadium, but he got up at 6:30 in the morning to drive to Philly to be able to see the game."

Ray Nitschke, middle linebacker of the Green Bay Packers, was named the winner of a car as the outstanding player in the title game.

Nitschke, a former Illinois star, is the first lineman to win the award, which was inaugurated for the NFL championship game of 1958.

Willie Wood, one of Green Bay's defensive backs and the centre of the game's only real controversy, explained the ruckus in a matter-of-fact way.

After being called for interference against Del Shofner late in the third quarter, Wood had a brush with back judge Tom Kelleher and was ejected from the game.

"I thought I made a real good play and when he called me for interference I reached out to grab his arm as he went by to pick up the ball," he said.

"My arm hit him in the chest and he fell down—probably knocked the wind out of him—and he apparently thought I'd thrown a punch. I didn't, and didn't even think of it, and I was really upset."

Grid Bowls Galore On New Year's TV

Eight of the top 10 college teams in the United States collide New Year's Day amid a profusion of roses, oranges, sugar and cotton in the annual extravaganza of the bowls.

Here's a rundown: Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.; Top-ranked Southern California with a 10-0 record vs. No. 2 Wisconsin, 8-1, in the biggest of the bowl games, to be televised by the CBC and NBC at 1:45 p.m. over Channel 2, 5 and 6. All-American players on display will be Southern Cal guard Danamon Bame and Wisconsin end Pat Richter.

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans: Third-ranked Mississippi, 9-0 vs. Arkansas, 9-1 and sixth-ranked, getting the television treatment on channel 5 at 10:45 a.m.

Cotton Bowl at Dallas: No. 4 Texas, 9-0-1, vs. Louisiana State 8-1-1 and seventh-ranked, via channels 7 and 12 at 11:30 a.m. All-Americans sharing the spotlight are Texas Longhorn guard John Treadwell and Louisiana-halfback Jerry Stovall. The Texans are coached by Darrell Royal, former coach of Edmonton Eskimos.

Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.: Florida, 9-1 and No. 5, vs. Oklahoma, 8-2 and No. 8, at 9:30 a.m. on channel 4. One All-American will be on the field, Alabama centre Lee Roy Jordan.

Bruins Won't Forget Those Final Minutes

By Canadian Press

Boston Bruins won't soon forget the last 10 minutes they spent on the ice with Chicago Black Hawks in 1962.

In that short space of time the Hawks, playing before an enthusiastic home crowd, clawed their way from behind with four goals to beat Bruins 4-2 Sunday night and finish the old year as undisputed leaders of the National Hockey League.

The victory put Chicago two points ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs, breaking a deadlock that persisted when the two teams fought to a 1-1 tie in Toronto Saturday night.

Other big gainers in weekend action were Montreal Canadiens; even though they blew a three-goal lead in New York Sunday night and had to settle for a 4-4 tie with Rangers. At home Saturday night Canadiens flashed some of their old-time class, drubbing Detroit 5-1. The results of the two games put them in third place, a point ahead of Red Wings and two behind Toronto.

OB TOP TEAM

Humber, Baines Bays' Big Boys

By ROBIN JEFFREY

Oak Bay High School finished the old year on a happy note Saturday, as their basketball team got fine performance from two players who had not been able to hit top form during the early part of the campaign. Sparked by Rick Humber and Pete Baines the Bays out-hustled and out-played Claremont to win the Bob Whyte tournament at Central Junior High.

Humber and Baines got 31 of the Bays' 56 points, 23 of them in the last half. Baines was highly accurate from the floor, hitting six out of 11 shots. Humber did his damage from the free-throw line, dunking 11 out of 13.

Bays jumped into a 12-6 lead in the first quarter but Claremont bounced back in the second frame, led by a tired-looking Russ Ball. Ball had spent the afternoon wading around in the Athletic Park mud with Victoria United and he looked it in the evening.

His nine-point spurge sent Claremont into a 23-19 lead at the half but Ball had accumulated three rather cheap fouls. Midway through the third quarter he fouled out. From there on the Bays were in command.

The Oaks went into the fourth quarter with a 38-34 lead and Claremont fell apart, throwing the ball away and shooting wildly as they hit only two of 13 shots from the field. Jack Farley, who grabbed 14 points for the losers, tried to bring order out of the chaos but it was too late.

Humorous sidelight of the tourney was the half-time entertainment of Cheney Studs Courtiers, a group of boys with a basketball routine patterned after the Globetrotters. Also in a humorous vein: Oak Bay had centre trouble Saturday. They were down to their fourth-string centre before the game ended and with a bench of only 12 players their centres were getting shorter and shorter.

In the consolation round Vic High Totems crushed Esquimalt Dockers 49-26 in an unexciting contest.

Victoria High: Rick Barnwell, Rich Brown, Don Frampton, Ben Sullivan, Dan Solberg, Barry Solberg, 6, Henry King, Doug Gregory, 2, Total—32.

Esquimalt: Ken Jackson, 7, Peter Edwards, 3, Terry Casey, Peter Herold, 2, Alvin Lorimer, 1, Barry Burch, 1, Mark Granlin, Brian McIntyre, Dave Russell, 11, Wayne Blake, Jim Wilson, 1, Dave McChesney, Peter Sallawa, Total—26.

Oak Bay: Rick Fraser, Bob Burrows, Mike McAvoy, Rick Humber, 31, Neil Savoy, Bruce Wallace, 1, Jim Green, 6, Dan Margatroyd, Peter Baines, 14, Tim Chisholm, Jim Pomroy, 4, Doug McFarlane, Total—56.

Claremont: Graham Baker, 2, Gary Johnston, 6, Charlie Cranwell, 2, Russell Ball, 32, Ken Nease, 1, Mike Hill, 1, Louie Mackie, Jack Farley, 14, Dave Trow, Doug McNeely, 2, Brian Kito, 1, Bob McMillan, Bob Green, 2, Total—49.

Dexter, Cowdrey Bat England to Good Spot

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Ted Dexter and Colin Cowdrey today batted England into a dominant position in the second test match against Australia here with a third wicket partnership of 175.

Coming together when the visiting cricketers had lost two wickets for 19 runs in reply to Australia's first—innings 316, Dexter (93) and Cowdrey (94) not out took the score to 194 at the close of the second day's play. England was 210 for three only 106 runs behind.

Fast bowler Alan Davidson gave Australia a great start by dismissing David Sheppard without scoring and Geoff Pullar for with a third wicket partnership of 175.

But Dexter and Cowdrey mastered the bowling and gradually improved England's position. Dexter, who just missed a century in the first test, when he was out for 99, again fell narrowly short. Caught at slip when driving Australian captain Richie Benaud, he hit 11 fours in his 93.

CANADIANS, CZECHS COOL OFF

When Quakers Win It's a Riot...

PRAGUE (CP)—Saskatoon Quakers made a sweep of their two weekend games in Czechoslovakia, defeating the Kladno all-stars 5-3 Sunday night in Prague.

In a Saturday night game at Chomutov, the touring Canadians beat the Chomutov VITZ team 7-4.

The game here saw a near riot in the first period. Both teams had to be sent to their dressing rooms for 10 minutes to cool off.

Trouble started when Ladislav Markup of the Kladno team opened a four-run slash cut on Wally Patrick's head. Both Patrick and Markup drew penalties. A minute later a cross-check by Zdenek Landa on Jackie McLeod precipitated fighting with players on both teams and some spectators along the boards getting into the fray.

After their return to the ice the teams played good hockey with a minimum of penalties and finished the game playing two men short.

(The Czech news agency Ceteka, monitored in Vienna, said the Canadians "not only fought the local players but converged on the fans behind the boards as well.")

After the Saturday night game Ceteka said the Canadians, "though playing a hard game were not as rough as in previous games."

However, it called the Quakers "surely the weakest" Canadian team ever to play in Czechoslovakia.

Quaker scorers were Maurice Offield, Herb Jeffrey, George Senick, McLeod and Don Smith. Getting assists were Jeffrey, Senick, Smith, Charlie Goodwin and Vic Lynn.

The all-stars passed the puck well but did not shoot as accurately as the Czech national team the Quakers met earlier. So far the Quakers have split the series four to four.

The Saskatoon seniors outshot the Czechs 35-25 in Sunday's contest, gaining their edge in the last two periods. Kladno had taken a 2-1 first-period lead but the Quakers moved in front 3-2 in the second.

Saskatoon will meet the same team in their next game New Year's night in Kladno.

A sellout crowd of 11,000 watched the Chomutov game but only 5,000 turned out in Prague. Ceteka blamed the low attendance on the "fact that the Canadians had piled up a bad reputation during their tour this time."

Ceteka said 13 penalties were given to the Canadian side while the Czechs had only five.

Pils May Also Dispute That 'No-Mudder' Tag

Pilseners 2, Victoria 2.
By ERNIE FEDORUK

Wallace Milligan, the soccer manager, doesn't think his Victoria United players, are as good "mudders" as was his Pacific Coast League team of a year ago. The players beg to differ.

Two of United's 10 home games this season have been mudbaths in every sense of the word. There was Vancouver Canadians' 3-2 victory last month and, more recently, Saturday's 2-2 tie with Pilseners.

Fans—the dry ones under the covered stands—might vow that none of the other eight matches were as entertaining as the mudbaths.

So if Victoria fans like this one, United and Pilseners are ready to perform again next Saturday for the benefit of Vancouver customers. The replay of Saturday's draw—a first-round Anderson Cup game—has been scheduled for Callister Park next Saturday.

The winners move against the tough Canadians in the semifinals.

Saturday's draw, to some of the 388 fans on hand at rain-drenched Royal Athletic Park, appeared a just result. United came from behind with five minutes left in regulation time to force overtime. Then it was Pilseners' turn to avoid defeat by scoring the final equalizer eight minutes before the extra session ended.

Had they awarded points for "close calls," it would have been United's game—by a breeze. Victoria dominated play and had enough good scoring opportunities to win four games. Erratic shooting, however, was the balancing factor that blessed the visitors from Vancouver.

FIVE CHANCES

The digits of only one hand were enough to keep a tally of Pilseners' chances. To wit: Wayne Jones, in the final minute of the first half; Harold Gillis; Dick Barling, midway in the second half; Al Mayervich, who was the victim of a fine save by United's Barry Sadler, and Bill Kochan, in overtime.

Five chances. Gillis and Kochan counted when their opportunities turned up.

In contrast, United "good opportunities" numbered about 15. Dave Stothard took five himself and Geoff Hill, brilliant in his second-half stint, had three.

Stothard, however, didn't miss when he took a penalty shot five minutes before regulation time expired.

BALL SCORES

And it was Hill's determined plodding at midfield that started the play for United's second goal. Rookie Russ Ball, showing a touch of class in trapping the ball, got that one after seven minutes of overtime.

Hill, halfback George Wright, forward Jim Dougall and fullback Ron Jenkin were the standouts of a Victoria team that, generally, was given good service by most of its members. Dougall's touches along the sidelines and Jenkin's tackling, in particular, were delightful to watch.

Vancouver's best, judging from the run of play, had to be selected from among the defending units. Fullback Al Mayervich, centre half Bill Mitchell and left half Bob Hazeldine were particularly effective. Hazeldine and Mayervich both pulled the ball off the line to prevent certain goals with goalie Bob Blissett out of the play.

United emerged from the fray with two casualties. Henry Vanderhorst was limping after being spiked on a leg that was on the mend from an earlier injury. Stothard suffered a groin injury late in the game.

Pee wee Scorers Paced by Merluk

Bobby Merluk's three goals Sunday night at Memorial Arena powered Victoria Cougars to a 5-5 pee wee exhibition victory over Esquimalt All-Stars.

At Thibault, Bob Crooks and Dennis Sproule also scored for Victoria while Don Blye, with two, Dave Price, Steve Andrejckew and Davies counted Esquimalt's goals.

Darrell Two-Way Ace; Keeps Chiefs Climbing

Victoria 59, Puritans 58.

Vancouver — Darrell Lorimer is rapidly winning acclaim as a leading candidate for most-valuable-player honors in the Inter-City Basketball League.

Victoria's won-lost record was 0-3 when Lorimer stepped up to join Haida Chiefs. That was a few weeks ago.

Chiefs have since salted away four victories in their last five starts and today there's no doubt in manager Neil Sprinkling's mind that, "with our share of the breaks," Victoria is capable of finishing second in the four-team league.

33-POINT SPREE

Win No. 4 turned up Saturday. Lorimer did the turning as Chiefs nipped Puritans 59-58 in an exciting game as you could hope for: Darrell accounted for most of his 25 points with a smooth-as-velvet touch around the key, but it was his hustling work on the backboards that saved this day for Haida.

Lorimer tipped in Bob Tomlinson's rebound with only six seconds left in the game to score the winning points. In addition to this point spree, Lorimer picked up 12 rebounds on defence and four on offence to emerge as the game's individual star.

Chiefs led 55-54 with a minute left in the game. Mel Brown put Vancouver ahead 56-55. Lorimer made it 57-56. Mike Lemmon charged back to make it 58-57, and then it was Lorimer's turn again.

Chiefs, who have stirred up excitement among Victoria fans, make their next home start Saturday, entertaining New Westminster Bakers at Central Junior High.

Victoria—Bill Wilson & John Devlin 2.

Vancouver—Hunter Candlish 18, Mel Brown 2, Mike Limon 18, Lee Clark 4.
Ed Malsen 2, Alan Galloway 8, Ed Ter, 10, John Heathcote 12. Total—58.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"I deny that show business is getting less religious!" exploded singin' Phyllis McGuire, whose mother was a preacher in Ohio.

Phyllis—now singing occasionally without her sisters Dorothy and "Chris"—objects to contentions that the whole world's getting Godless.

"Maybe some religious concepts have changed," said the leggy, lovely Phyllis.

"But you've some stars with great religious depth and background—Perry Como, Nat (King) Cole, Jane Russell, Pat Boone, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Bob Cummings, Elvis Presley, Jaye and Audrey Meadows..."

Phyllis treasures the "very strict" days in the First Church of God, in Maimsburg, O., where card-playing and even popular songs were considered sinful.

"I was only five when I first sang and was so little they couldn't see me over the pulpit and they'd put me on a box," she remembered.

'GOD BLESS YOU'

"Later we'd travel, like to Canton, O., to sing at revival meetings. We weren't paid much. They'd say 'God bless you, Sister,' and pay you with a handshake. Or sometimes they'd give us a love offering."

Phyllis says that her appearances as a "single"—which really gets well started on the Red Skelton show early in '63—will be difficult.

"Now it's just going to be me—and what do I do about it?" she says.

Her sister Chris' divorce from John H. Teeter of the Damon Runyon Fund—just revealed—has nothing to do with her "single" technique, Phyllis says. They'll continue to work together many months a year.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Paraphrasing Will Rogers, young comedian Warren Robertson, preparing a Rogers impersonation, drawls, "All I know is what I used to read in the papers."

Pretty Sandy Stewart, one of the Kraft Players Perry Como's show dropped in a hunt for a new format, says she's unworried—Perry's already summoned her back Jan. 2 to sing her hit recording, "My Coloring Book," which shoots her salary higher and higher.

What a contrasting N.Y. night! Guy Lombardo opening at the Americana Royal Box—Count Basie and Nipsy Russell at the Basin St. East—couldn't have been farther apart. Basie plays so boomin'ly that my B.W. said Johnnie Ray was the only one able to control it—he could turn his hearing aid off. Both played to SRO audiences—so there's room here for the new and the old.

Rita Hayworth—busted up with Gary Merrill—again... Vaughn ("First Family") Meader gets $20,000-a-week for his group at the Las Vegas Sahara starting April 2... Joe DiMaggio and Frank Sinatra, not so chummy lately, each headed to Acapulco for vacations. Hope they get together again!

EARL'S PEARLS: Comedian Dick Curtis of the Guy Lombardo show said Tipton, Ind., is a small town, and "that's a place where, when you plug in the toaster, the trolley cars stop."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A B'way secretary arrived for work looking tired. "Want some coffee?" her boss asked her. "No thanks," she said, "I don't want to wake up."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Nipsy Russell at Basin St. East alleges they got a message from the moon. It said, "To hell with these monkeys and dogs! Send some chicks up here!"

The truck from New Jersey had this sign on the back of it, "Don't hit me, now, 'cause I'm goin' steady." That's Earl, brother.

Earl Wilson

BIG GREETING—A 110-ton locomotive became an enormous greeting card after it was signed by more than 1,200 employees who helped build it at Schenectady, N.Y. Bound for Pakistan, the locomotive was signed with big felt pens in a gesture of friendship to Pakistani railroad workers.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other last-minute prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by you and those who submit the questions to select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 30-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the World Book Encyclopedia to Steve Wetmore, age 11, of New Brunswick, N.J., for his question:

Why Do Birds Fly in V-Formation?

When a squadron of Canadian geese flies north over New Jersey, you know that spring is on the way. In the fall, we hope that the big brown birds will return overhead on their way to spend the winter in our southern states. A flock of geese, ducks, or other water birds often makes its long flight in an eye-catching V-formation.

Many people ignore birds, but no one can resist watching a flock of geese flying together like a neat, V-shaped dart over the sky. We watch and soon begin to wonder why and how the trick is done. Perhaps the neat squadron is led by the old fellow who happens to be boss of the flock. Perhaps the leader is selected because he knows the way or has a good sense of direction.

Bird watchers have admired and puzzled over this V-formation for generations. Even now, experts are not sure that they can explain all of its details, but some recent studies suggest that we may have let our imaginations run away with us. At least, the spearhead of the flock is not the boss of the flock or elected for his special skills.

The Canadian goose is one of the famous V-fliers, and a pair of these birds mates for life. Family life revolves around each married couple, and the flock is merely an association of families. Moreover, careful watching has shown that the leader of the squadron is not always the same bird. In a long flight, the leader may drop back and another bird flies forward to take his or her position.

In order to fly planes, we had to learn aerodynamics, which is the way air moves and flows around solid objects. Designers learned about the invisible currents and motions, stresses and strains involved in moving air and moving objects. Geese and other V-flying birds have been coping with these problems for ages. We might, suggested the experts, apply some of our theories of aerodynamics to the V-formation of certain flying birds.

V-Shape for Long Distances

The lead bird cuts straight through an invisible wall of air. This sets up flowing currents of air behind him, and the following birds take advantage of them. The leader's work is hardest, and after a while he tires and hands over his pioneer work to another bird. He can then relax a little with the help of the currents and sheltering eddies which flow behind the lead bird.

As a rule, birds fly in V-formation only when migrating or making a journey of several miles. In short hops around their feeding grounds, whole flocks may take to the air at once and fly in the same direction. But this mass flight does not take any particular formation. The V-shape is for long distances. At evening, the migrating flock rests on some quiet pond. The wheeling and landing skills at this time are even more fascinating to watch than the V-shaped flights over the sky. Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Bruce Kartchner, age 13, of Murray, Utah, for his question:

What is an ant lion?

He is not a lion and not an ant. But he has the fierceness of a lion and feeds upon ants. The ant lion is actually an insect larva in the second stage of his life cycle. Later he becomes a pupa and finally a handsome, lacewing insect with two pairs of leaf-shaped wings of gauze and a pair of golden eyes.

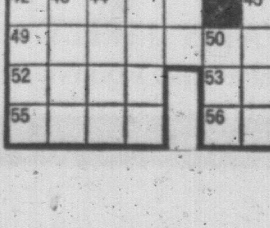

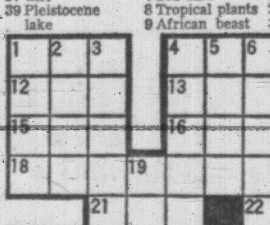

The larva of the lacewing, all the ant lion, digs a pit in sandy soil. He waits hidden in the bottom of his trap with his pincer jaws ready. Soon an ant wanders into the pit, and the fierce ant lion rushes out, scattering enough sand to start a small avalanche. In the confusion he grabs and devours his struggling victim.

After the Ball, Some Permanent Reminders

By JOHN MIKA

Exactly one year ago tonight former Mayor Percy Scurrah and Mayor R. B. Wilson turned on centennial year.

Buttons were pushed to light the floodlamps outside City Hall, floodlamps at Craigdarroch Castle and at the Rockland water tower "candle".

On Douglas Street, 100 cluster-light standards were dressed with plastic "candelabra" decorations. During the ensuing year, the outstanding event marking the centenary was city council's decision—subsequently ratified by ratepayers—to develop Centennial Victoria Square.

Achieved Goals

Although the year got off to a bad start—running through two committees and two co-ordinators before settling down with a professional promotion company and Ald. Michael Griffin calling the signals—the program achieved virtually all its goals.

Part of the exhilaration—at least as reflected at City Hall—came from the first glimmerings of a turning point in the city's history, as numerous civic revitalization programs were proposed and won acceptance. This added an extra filip to the whole year and gave it the extra dimension of looking forward to the next century as well as honoring the past.

Brought Closer

The celebrations helped bring Victorians a little closer together and strengthened their community spirit as well as making various economic sectors more prosperous from the influx of tourists.

This was pointed up by the large attendance at all centennial events despite the fact the whole celebration was operated under the shadow of the Seattle world's fair.

There are many permanent reminders left of the centenary and many more memories of colorful events, 160.

60,000 Attended

Here are only a sampling of them:

A total of 60,000 persons went to see the three major spectator attractions organized by the centennial committee in Royal Athletic Park—the historical pageant with a cast of 1,000; the famous RCMP Musical Ride, and the loggers' sports show. Biggest single day of the year was Aug. 2—the actual centenary—when city council members served breakfast to citizens in front of City Hall, later announced the civic precinct project, and attended the centennial bonfire.

Colors Presented

A visit by HRH the Princess Mary to present colors to the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) at a spectacular military ceremony.

Neighborhood was shown by the outside municipalities in the form of a country-style birthday party tendered by Saanich and a tea party in Oak Bay.

Total of 62 riders set off on a 100-mile ride over rough country to Shawnigan Lake as the Garden City Horsemen's Club salute to the centennial and the "cowboys" wound it up in style by riding into town to the City Hall steps.

Another salute was given the city by the Royal Canadian Navy which organized sea-going and static demonstrations at and off Beacon Hill Park for three days.

Almost 400 pioneers from 1887 were located and given special treats during the year including a Government House garden party, pioneers' banquet in the Empress Hotel and presentation of bronze centennial medals struck for Victoria Numismatic Society, a lawn tea at historic Craigflower School and a special service at the pioneer Church of Our Lord.

Those are among the multitude of memories but there also are permanent reminders of the big celebration.

Parade of Ships

The "parade of ships" on the Causeway leaves 24 bronze plaques, commemorating the arrival of some important pioneers on early ships; the bronze and silver medals; a special issue postage stamp for philatelists' collections.

The graceful fountain behind the Legislative Buildings; the Rockland water tower "candle" and flood-lighting systems for Craigdarroch and City Hall; a new marker on the Ross Bay grave of Sir James Douglas—and last, a few bearded men.

DISTINCTIVE centennial decorations were the plastic "candelabra" that dressed up 100 cluster light standards on Douglas Street. The white cylinders have been stored in case they may be wanted again as seasonal decorations—perhaps with Christmas decals. Also an important part of the centennial "night line" was flood-lighting of Craigdarroch Castle.

KEY PIECE in Victoria's centennial year "night line" was floodlighting of repainted City Hall. Photo above shows how it stood out as the central landmark of city at night as well as by day. Flood-lighting system will be kept permanently for use on special occasions and during holiday periods.

MONTE ROBERTS

Some constituents seem to think I was kidding a couple of weeks ago, when I made a piteous plea to

Save the Poolroom

What prompted this plea was the fact our city fathers are toying with the idea of permitting ladies to enter poolrooms, thus destroying one of the last citadels of male aloneness.

But my piteous plea seems to have fallen on contemptuous ears. Even, as I said at the outset, some of my very own constituents thought I was kidding.

Well, I wasn't. And as evidence, consider what has already happened in dear old Ontario.

As reported by Harry Bruce in the impeccably accurate Maclean's Magazine, poolrooms in Toronto and Hamilton now have broadloom floors, peach and plum walls, and drapes.

Tiger also have indirect lighting, piped-in music of a semi-classical nature, and ashtrays. No gaboons.

Table tops in these poolrooms, which are now called "studios" and "academies" now come in six ingratiating shades, including tangerine. And swearing is verboten, on the penalty of exile.

As Mr. Bruce sums it up: "The new pool halls look like big, suburban recreation rooms."

Sherwood Lanes in Hamilton (remember when one went bowling on an alley?) has two snooker tables set aside behind folding doors for those who would pursue the ivory spheroids in privacy. The same establishments, accept reservations, and this is hard to take—has a female at the cash register.

To top it all off, the proprietors (or should I say perpetrators?) of these establishments frankly confess that, as far as women customers are concerned, billiards is a Togetherness game.

And you wonder why I sent forth the piteous cry:

Save the Poolroom

It is obviously too late. What has happened in Toronto and Hamilton has spread to Vancouver and CAN happen here.

But let us stop this female encroachment before even the time-hallowed stag party goes co-educational.

VICTORIA'S GIANT-SIZE "BIRTHDAY CANDLE"

The Rockland water tower which rises more than 100 feet—will stay lit each night after centennial year is closed out. The floodlighted water tower with an orange neon "flame" donated by the city's sign companies was, a feature of centenary decorations. Visible from many parts of the city and also from the strait, it will be kept as a permanent marker.

Douks Seek Extension At Camp

Indications that Sons of Freedom Doukifibors will attempt to finish the winter at Hope were bolstered today by word that sect leaders plan to ask the Seventh-Day Adventist Church for an extension of camping privileges.

Deadline set by the church for evacuation of its 13-acre summer camp on the outskirts of the canyon town was Thursday, Jan. 3.

Pastor George Adams, president of B.C. Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, told the Times from Mission City that word of the pending request has reached him by "bush telegraph."

"Whether an extension is granted," he said, "will be a matter for our church committee to decide. Right now, I'm unable to suggest what our decision may be."

Mr. Adams, who inspected the summer camp Friday, said that the more than 1,000 Sons of Freedom under canvas and in cabins there "are taking reasonably good care of the place."

RESTORED IN TIME

In spite of the present overburden on sanitary facilities, it was sure the camp could be fully restored well before Seventh-Day Adventist groups move in next summer.

"Our camp is in open timber," he said, "and normally it presents a beautiful sight. We have a good water supply, water-borne sewage disposal, and washhouse blocks. During the summer, we have anywhere from 3,000 to 5,000 campers there in tents, cabin dormitories and trailers."

'Youth Bonds' Sold By Boy Politicians

The 32nd annual Older Boys' minister of devotions and provincial secretary. The parliament was proffered by "Lieutenant-Governor" William J. Rose of Vancouver after a meeting of the Young Men's Association of Burnaby called for a united effort during the coming year.

The five Victorians taking were Dave MacLean, Brian Smith, Glen Downey, Frank Basham and Bruce Hardy.

They supported a resolution, sponsored by the 35-member observer group, that the minister of publications obtain information on alcohol education for distribution among members.

"Our movement is spreading rapidly and our membership is coming from a greater area of the province than ever before," said David Bennett of Vancouver, who is known as

The entire stock of narcotics in two Colwood drug stores was stolen in the most recent of 18 reported break-ins since last Thursday night.

The Sidney liquor store also was robbed of several cases of liquor and beer over the weekend.

Colwood RCMP are searching for addicts or pushers who are believed to have made off with the supply of narcotics from Colwood Pharmacy, 301 Goldstream, and Belmont Drugs, in the Colwood Shopping Plaza.

LOCKED CABINETS

The drugs in each case were kept in locked cabinets, which the culprits jimmied open.

Both thefts are believed to have occurred early this morning.

Police said entrance to Colwood Pharmacy was gained by smashing open a rear door.

The thieves also tried unsuccessfully to jimmy open the rear door of Belmont Drugs, finally gaining entrance through a side window, which was smashed.

No cash was taken from the drug stores, and no other damage was done during the break-ins.

The exact amount of drugs stolen has not yet been determined.

Police also said the value of the drugs was difficult to gauge because of the difference in the retail value and the "going price" in the underworld market.

Two men were spotted jumping from the window of the Sidney liquor store about 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

POLICEMAN CLOSE

RCMP Constable I. Dedish was driving up to the store after receiving a report of a suspicious car near the premises, when he saw the men. They fled on foot down an alley.

Behind them on the street they left several smashed bottles of liquor and beer.

Exact quantity of the liquor stolen has not been determined yet, but it is known several cases of beer are missing.

The thieves smashed a front window in the store with five rocks, before climbing in. It is believed they drove off in a small English car.

RESIDE BED

About 3:30 a.m. today, 17-year-old Chris Vanderstoep awoke to find a man standing beside his bed set up in Centennial United Church, 649 George.

Chris, recently discharged from the army, was staying with his parents, his father being caretaker of the church.

The young Vanderstoep pretended to be asleep until the intruder left his room, after stealing the wallet out of his trousers pocket.

RAN FOR HELP

He watched while the man left the church by the David Street entrance, and then ran next door to his father's house.

Police found the thief had tried unsuccessfully to force the main door to the church, and had finally entered by the side door.

He had used collection envelopes and other church papers as torches to light his way through the building, which,

FULL-MEASURE HOLIDAYS FOR STUDENTS AT EASTER

Pupils return to school Thursday after a shortened Christmas holiday.

But they can look forward to a regular-length Easter holiday. It will run from Good Friday, April 12, to April 22.

This year's Christmas holiday, which began Dec. 22, was cut down two days from the normal period as a result of Chant royal commission on education recommendations for a longer school year.

Fire Destroys House Trailer

Damages exceeding $12,000 were caused by two fires in the Duncan area Sunday.

The first involved a house trailer and its contents, completely destroyed by a fire which broke out at 3:30 a.m.

The owner, G. E. Crookshank, and his family were in Vancouver at the time.

Estimated value of the trailer was $10,000.

Fire Chief Pat Clarkson believes the blaze started from a defective oil heater.

Prompt action by the fire department prevented the destruction of a moving van owned by Blue and White Movers of Victoria.

The van, en route from Sproat Lake to Victoria with a load of furniture, was stopped by a passing motorist at James Street and the Trans-Canada Highway when smoke and flames belched from its rear doors.

The van pulled into a nearby

Fulton Asked To Run Here

Federal Works Minister E. Davie Fulton likely will be invited to run for Victoria in the next provincial election when the local Progressive Conservative Association meets here next Thursday.

"He would be welcomed with open arms," said Alex Reed, president of the association, "but the official invitation to Mr. Fulton will not be made before our Thursday meeting."

Reed was commenting on a statement by Mr. Fulton in Quesnel that he has been invited to run for Victoria. He said he imagined Mr. Fulton had already been invited by individual members.

"It would be very appropriate if he ran as candidate for the capital city of British Columbia in a three-member riding."

"But I am sure he would be most welcome in any of the Greater Victoria ridings."

At Quesnel, where he ended a tour of northern British Columbia Sunday, Mr. Fulton said in a press conference he has been invited to run in four different constituencies—Victoria, Vancouver, Kamloops and Salmon Arm.

TAKE THEM TO 30 HOWE ST.

There's Some Cheer Left In Those Old Yule Cards

Don't burn those old Christmas cards. Don't throw them in the garbage can.

Bundle them up and take them to 30 Howe Street where Mrs. H. A. Arnold keeps a huge box on her front veranda to receive them. Just toss them in the box.

It's the first step in a journey they will take to Taiwan, India or Bolivia.

For the next few weeks Mrs. Arnold will be packing and shipping the cards.

FOR PATIENTS

Some will go to Mrs. James (Lillian) Dickson, wife of Dr. Dickson, a worker with the foreign missions of the Presbyterian Church in Taiwan. Under her guidance the cards will give happiness to patients in leper hospitals, children's hospitals and orphanages.

Other cards will be sent to Baptist missions in India and Bolivia.

Bible workers will carry them on their visits to the outlying villages. They also go to schools and colleges to brighten the walls of the various rooms.

Mrs. Arnold's only request:

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What is the population of Vancouver Island? E.B.

A. Vancouver Island's listed population at the last census was 293,077. This does not include the Gulf Islands.

Q. How does one polish slate on a fireplace hearth? D.M.B.

A. If you wish to preserve the natural beauty of the slate, it is not recommended that it be polished. Your fireplace can be kept attractive by washing the slate with ordinary soap and water and then giving it a coat of slate sealer to prevent dust from settling.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times," Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve problems or legal questions. Questions will attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Empress Hotel employees have accepted a conciliation board award but there is no word if management will also accept and thus end the long-standing labor dispute.

The award recommends a four-cents-an-hour increase instead of the five cents, originally asked by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

It will be retroactive to March 1, 1962, and continue to March 1, 1963. Other benefits suggested would adjust wage rates in certain categories to bring them in line with what the union claims is the going rate in this area.

The League of Roses (Lance-Yorks), will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in Loughheed Hall. Election of officers will be held.

More than 2,000 Roman Catholics and non-Catholics from all parts of Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands attended a reception given by Bishop Remi De Roo of Victoria in the Empress Hotel Sunday afternoon.

The line-up of guests extended from the side entrance to the hotel through the lobby and lounge to the Crystall Ballroom.

Guests were introduced to the new bishop by Father Michael O'Connell and A. F. Ritz, of Victoria. Messages of greeting were given by Agriculture Minister Frank Richter, on behalf of Premier Bennett, and by Ald. A. W. Toone, for the Mayor of Victoria.

Better Luck In New Year With New Fishing Rod

By PENNY SAVER

Penny is really treading in deep water today (without hip waders) attempting to describe a fishing rod. I have used this bit of sporting equipment on two timely occasions—once to stop traffic at a busy intersection and secondly to dislodge a kite from a tree.

This is no fish story, the fishing rod did stop traffic. I had bought a new fiberglass rod for my father and then marched out into the holiday mob bearing my gift. All wrapped in gold, it made me look as if I was ready for combat. I stood, with my friends, at a pedestrian crossing waiting for the cars to stop but they roared on. Then, suddenly I thrust out the rod, tires screeched, traffic halted and we all marched safely across like a family of ducks.

So when I saw that one sporting goods shop was having a very good special on fishing rods this week I was almost tempted to buy another. These fly and spinning rods are good quality fiberglass rods with cork handles and come complete with tautan case. Regularly priced at $17.95 they are now on special at $12.95.

One of the first and most popular reels on the market that regularly sells for $29.95 is now being sold for only $21.95.

Smoke rifles for children, with a resounding siren after you pull the trigger, have been reduced from $6.25 to $4.95 and by the time you get there they may be even less.

While you are in this shop you should pick up a few stop signs to stick to the back of a bicycle, car, tractor, wagon or any other moving object. They are made of a reflective sheeting that shines bright at night in any direct light beam. They're only 29 cents for two so why not be safe and buy several.

If you are as ardent a fisherman as Penny phone 382-3131 for the name of the store, and a Happy New Year to all.

THE BETTER HALF

By Bob Barnes

"Ya know what—I've resolved to take one more crack at my 1948 resolutions!"

TODAY'S RECIPE

CELESTIAL HASH

One teaspoon plain gelatin, 1 cup canned pineapple syrup, 1 cup milk, pinch of salt, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 can (11 oz.) drained Mandarin oranges, 1 can (10 oz.) drained pineapple cubes, 1/2 cup commercial sour cream, 1 cup miniature marshmallows, 1/2 cup coarsely chopped nuts, 1 cup flake coconut.

Soak gelatin in pineapple syrup drained off fruit. Blend milk into cornstarch and salt in top of double boiler. Heat to boiling point and boil two minutes stirring constantly. Place pan over hot (not boiling) water. Add sugar to slightly beaten eggs. Stir some of hot milk mixture into eggs and then stir back into top of double boiler. Cook and stir custard until thickened and mixture will coat a silver spoon dipped into it. If water should boil and custard shows signs of curdling, set pan immediately in cold water and beat with rotary beater until smooth, then continue cooking. Add vanilla and soaked gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool custard by setting pan in cold water and changing water as it warms up. Stir occasionally.

Meanwhile, set aside some of fruit for garnishing later and mix rest of Mandarin oranges and pineapple cubes with the sour cream, marshmallows, nuts and coconut. Let stand in refrigerator while custard is cooling. Combine fruit mixture and custard and pour into serving dish. Garnish and chill thoroughly. Serve alone or with shortbread, angel or sponge cake.

Celestial hash is a delightfully refreshing dessert from file of "husband approved" recipes. It could replace the heavier desserts during the festive season or be used any time a "special" dessert is desired. It may be made the day before or served within an hour or two of preparation, although the texture is more like a mousse if allowed to chill thoroughly.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Believe it or not, you can eat your way to 12 months of prosperity. According to an old Irish superstition, a bite of salt herring in the first second of the New Year will assure you of plenty of money. For the luck of the Irish, a holiday hostess might serve Digby Chicks (salted and smoked herring fillets) as hors d'oeuvres at tonight's party.

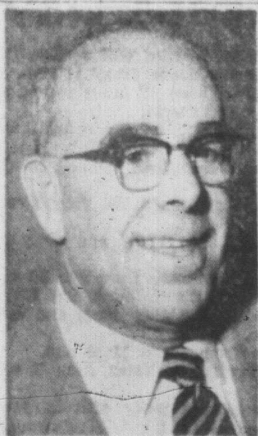

Coffee started out, well over a thousand years ago, as a food, not as a drink. Long before the coffee beverage appeared, Ethiopians used to shape ground beans and fat into food balls for sustenance on long marches and during battle.

Lemon juice adds an extra spark of flavor when it's sprinkled over fillets of sole along with salt and pepper before they're breaded and fried. This quick trick is a favorite of leading hotel chefs. Another master touch that puts these delicate-tasting fillets into a very special class is to add a liberal dash of paprika to the flour you use for pre-breading. It helps produce a richer, deeper color in the crisp coating.

BE SMART—

Fashion salutes the sweater combined with irresistible little fur like this beige mole-skin pull-over with black wool sleeves and turtle neck. Don the beige wool cardigan trimmed with black fox for dressier occasions.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

As 1963 Is Rung In Tonight,
Will You Be Travelling Light?

Here we are again, poised between the old year and the new, between looking back and looking forward, between nostalgia and excitement.

Lowman

There is not another evening in the whole year like tonight. It is a mixture of laughter and tears, of churches and dancing, of "half fellow well met" and tenderness. Why not save from the old year only those experiences and thoughts which are enriching, inspiring, comforting, delightful, warm or amusing?

Too often we drag along with us, from the past year, thoughts which are damaging or depressing. We are apt to dwell on mistakes and hug regrets to our heart. Many bring to the New Year a whole parcel of petty resentments. Like a pack of thorns on their back, these act as constant irritants.

If your emotional back is being lacerated like this, beware, or your mind and attitude and actions and emotions will be diverted into negative and unrewarding channels and make vibrant living impossible. When 1963 is rung in to-

DEAR ABBY

Bad Connections

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The wife who wrote that her 33-year-old husband wanted to paw all the young girls struck a familiar chord with me. I agree that some men who act like this are "sick." But I think there is another side. Don't you think if mother's taught their daughters not to encourage older men by flirting with them and sitting on their laps (all in fun, of course), we wouldn't have so much trouble of this kind?

FORT WORTH FAN

DEAR FAN: Not always. Sometimes you aren't even aware of the connection until you get the shock!

DEAR ABBY: Last night, while I was fixing supper, my husband came into the kitchen, put his arms around me and hugged and kissed me. I said, "What brought that on?" He replied, "I love you." Later, when the children were out, he said, "Honey, haven't I been treating you right?" I said, "You always treat me right—what is the matter?"

His reply: "Well, when I came home this evening I wanted to type up my speech for the Chamber of Commerce and found the typewriter out and a letter in it. It started, 'DEAR ABBY.' I explained that I only wanted to write and tell you that I was one of those women who got up in the morning to make her husband's breakfast. Thanks, Abby. It gave me a thrill to know he loved me as much as I love him.—KY."

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother who sleeps with her 13-year-old daughter when she could just as easily sleep with her own husband? The reason she sleeps with me is because my father snores. Well, Abby, SHE snores and keeps me awake. If I don't get my sleep at night, I can't keep my head up in school. What should I do?

ALWAYS TIRED

DEAR TIRE: If there is a couch in the living room, sleep on it. Or fix up a "bed" anywhere in the house, far away from both snoring parents. Good luck, and pleasant dreams.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a large office and every year have allowed the boys in our office to kiss me "movie style" on New Year's. There is a snob who came to work with us, who lets the boys kiss her on the cheek only. She contends that it is unethical and unsanitary—otherwise, who is right? GEORGINA

DEAR GEORGINA: I'm with the "snob." A kiss on the cheek is adequate for a co-worker. If he comes back for "seconds"—turn the other cheek.

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU: May you and yours have a happy, healthy and prosperous New Year. What's on your mind? Bride's Brothers Act as Altar Boys

Walter and Alan Magee served as altar boys at the recent wedding of their sister, Margaret Anne Magee. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Magee, 3150 Boundary Street. The groom, Gregory Reuben Sills, is the son of Mrs. J. S. Sills, 1021 Cook Street, and the late Mr. Sills.

Fr. L. Belanger conducted the nuptial mass in Sacred Heart Church. White chrysanthemums and holly were used in decorations. Organist was Mrs. J. B. Herron.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white wool boucle suit, with veiled white fur hat and white satin shoes. Her corsage was red roses.

The bride's sister, Mrs. J. D. Weiss, was matron of honor, in a blue Blin and Blin sheath dress with jacket. A white maribou headband and a corsage of white gardenias completed her ensemble.

Dennis Atkinson was best man. George Jakubowski ushered guests to their pews.

Holly and chrysanthemums decorated the home of the bride's parents for a reception. Holly topped the wedding cake, which was flanked by red and white candles. Fr. Bernard Hanley proposed the toast. The newlyweds will make their home in Vancouver.

Here to attend the wedding were Mrs. A. Poirier, Vancouver; Mrs. J. D. Weiss, Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. E. Poirier, North Surrey, and Kenneth Magee, Mission City.

Mrs. Peggy Lou Waibel, of Prospect Lake Road, is shown on the deck of the North German Lloyd Line's flagship TS Bremen, just before sailing from New York harbor bound for a three-month visit with her relatives in Stuttgart, Germany. (Photo Courtesy of North German Lloyd.)

RCMP Dress Uniforms Add Color at Wedding

Scarlet-jacketed dress uniforms of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, worn by the groom and his attendants, formed a colorful background at the wedding of Patricia Jean Gillings and David Malcolm McEay, held in St. Luke's Anglican Church.

Canon Frederic Pike officiated at the double-ring ceremony. White and red flowers decorated the church and pews were marked with white and red carnations.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gillings, 395 St. Charles Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald McEay of Manitowadge, Ont.

Daughter Receives Mother's Jewel

Three generations were represented when Miss Kathleen Barnes, her mother, Mrs. L. Barnes and grandmother, Mrs. A. Edmonds, attended recent meeting of Pride of Victoria, Juvenile-Orange Lodge. A past president's jewel, presented to Mrs. Barnes in 1931, was presented to her daughter at the meeting. A suitable engraved bar had been added to the jewel and Mrs. I. Burt made the presentation on both occasions.

Mrs. Burt, who is past grand mistress of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association of British Columbia, also installed the lodge's new officers, assisted by Mrs. E. Bell, deputy grand mistress.

They are: President, Miss Shirley Stanfield; vice-president, Miss Ruth Bradshaw; chaplain, Miss Teresa White; recording secretary, Miss Mary Crouch; financial secretary, Miss Linda Knowles; treasurer, Miss Pat Mooney; first standard bearer, Miss Judy Knowles; first lecturer, Miss Barbara Hewton; second standard bearer, Miss Marie Evans; second lecturer, Miss Dawn Colquhoun; first escort, Miss Marjory Jones; second, Miss Marie Crouch; inner guard, Miss Terry Colquhoun; outer, Miss Margaret Burt; senior guardian, Mrs. L. Hamilton, and assistant guardian, Mrs. M. Burt. Immediate past president is Miss Kathleen Barnes.

'Super' Hands Over Reins

By PAT DUFOUR

Mrs. Morris W. Thomas "moved house" today.

This was no ordinary change of address for, with her departure from her suite in the Red Cross Lodge—adjacent to the Veterans' Hospital, Mrs. Thomas said goodbye to nine years as lodge supervisor.

Life for her has now moved in a full circle, for it was at neighboring Royal Jubilee Hospital that she graduated as a nurse in 1916.

But, like many a young graduate, for years she confined her nursing abilities to the home. She married Dr. Thomas shortly after graduation and voluntarily assumed the role of "backseat driver" in the medical field.

For 20 years, the doctor and his wife lived in Victoria until, in 1936, they moved to the mainland on Dr. Thomas's appointment as the executive secretary of the British Columbia Medical Association.

When Dr. Thomas died in the early 50s his widow returned to Victoria and soon afterward the pull of the nursing profession drew her into the work of the Red Cross.

Of her time at the lodge Mrs. Thomas says, "Many people imagine that all a supervisor has to do is to run things from a desk."

"There's so much more to it than that. The lodge provides lodging for relatives of veteran patients who are seriously ill and when these people need someone to talk with and relieve their fears—even in the middle of the night—what can you do but give them the reassurance that they're looking for?"

Mrs. Thomas at her desk in the Red Cross Lodge. Well-thumbed books of the circulating library that's a popular rendezvous for patients, surround her.

Not that life at the lodge is depressing. "Anything, but!" Mrs. Thomas assures you. "Primarily, the lodge is there to offer recreational facilities for the patients and we often have as many as 60 of them here for the coffee break in the morning."

"Then, too, we provide full course meals, with everything home-made. When the patients tire of hospital food and want something different they come here and 'eat out.' They like nothing better than to bring their friends or family and act as host."

No bridge tournaments have ever been fought more fiercely than the many games played by the patients at the lodge. And, Mrs. Thomas will tell you, every television program has its own devoted band of followers.

Other than the supervisor and the janitor staff, the lodge is run on volunteer help with as many as 100 volunteers manning the busy "coffee shop" and other facilities during one week.

Apart from "being lazy for a while" now that she has officially handed over to her successor, Mrs. N. Ormond, Mrs. Thomas has no plans for the future.

"It will be marvellous to rest and take things easy." But already this resolve seems in danger of being dismissed. On queried whether her work with the Red Cross is really at an end she compromises with:

"That's pretty hard to say. Maybe, one of these days, when I've had time to relax and look around, I'll end up back here as one of the volunteers. After all, I like helping people and I can't think of a better way than through the Red Cross."

Double Rings Exchanged

Rev. D. Kendall united in marriage Jane Celeste Valli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Douglas, 425 Raynor Avenue, and Roger Alan Loggin, son of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Loggin, 576 Heatherly Road, in a double ring ceremony in St. Saviour's Anglican Church.

Nylon lace insets highlighted the full skirt of the bride's floor-length gown. A circle of orange blossoms held her three-quarter-length veil and she carried a crescent bouquet of white chrysanthemums and gardenias.

Matron of honor, Mrs. John Urlicher, wore a deep pink ballerina-length gown. Similarly styled gowns in light green were chosen by bridesmaids Miss Gladys Newell and Miss Barbara Leebold. They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums and roses.

Cousin of the groom, Doreen Fraser, was flower girl in a pale pink nylon frock. She carried a colonial bouquet of white chrysanthemums and pink rosebuds.

Courtney Loggin brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Ronald Sather and John Urlicher.

A three-tier wedding cake, flanked by pale pink roses and tall candles, centred the bride's table at a reception in Holyrood House.

Uncle and aunt of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Fraser, came from Vancouver with their daughter Doreen, for the wedding.

On return from an honeymoon up Island the couple will be living in Victoria.

Champion-Doherty Vows Heard

Sacred Heart Church was the scene of a quiet wedding Saturday when Sharon Elizabeth Doherty and William Michael Champion exchanged vows. Seasonal motifs and flowers provided the decor. Fr. J. Planeta heard the marriage vows. Organist was Mrs. M. Herron.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard K. Doherty, 4020 Saanich Road, and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Champion, 31 Wellington Avenue.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white wool sheath, complemented with a hat of white satin petals and white ostrich feathers. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Karen Knight, chose a fuchsia red dressmaker suit, matching accessories and bouquet of white roses.

John Gubbens was best man and Richard Scheer ushered guests to their pews.

Two-tier all-white wedding cake, surrounded by tulips and rosebuds, centred the bride's table at the reception held in Holyrood House. Gold and red floral arrangements and red roses completed table decor. W. A. Murdock proposed the toast.

Leaving for a honeymoon in San Francisco and Las Vegas, the bride wore her wedding costume topped with a black and white tweed Dior coat and black accessories.

On return the newlyweds will live at 1177 Newport Avenue. Of-of-town guests included Miss Susan Nash and Wayne Rowley of Vancouver, and Miss Louise Wasterdowski and Gilbert Yard, both of Taber, Alta.

"FOREST"
CEDAR SIDING
A new cedar specialty for Beauty
Long Life
Economy
...
What is "FOREST"
Siding?
A new and attractive type of siding that comes from specially selected cedar logs sawn to bring out all the distinctive character of knots, burls and grain.
How Does
"FOREST" compare with other siding?
It has more thickness, greater wood volume to add structural strength to any building. Its snug fitting makes good insulation and its low cost makes it ideal for modest budget home builders or remodel-ers.
How to finish
"FOREST"
"Forest" has a distinctive horizontal shadow line that will enhance the beauty of your home.
If you wish to preserve the natural rustic effect of "Forest" apply a coat of oil filler first, then varnish or shellac. "Forest" siding also takes paint beautifully if you wish a colored finish.
YOU can easily apply "FOREST" cedar siding
Many home owners have applied this modern, beautiful "Forest" siding themselves without the slightest difficulty.

KATANGA

UN Demands All Planes

(Times News Services)

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo—United Nations forces today seized control of another key town in Katanga province and warned they will destroy all Katangan planes which are not surrendered to the UN by Tuesday morning.

Tshombe Consults Welensky

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters)—President Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya arrived today at Katanga, 220 miles west of Leopoldville, to consult with Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky of the Rhodesian federation.

Tshombe flew into Kolwezi from Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, where he had talks with Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky of the Rhodesian federation. He landed less than 24 hours after United Nations planes battered Kolwezi airfield and reported they had destroyed air installations and a training plane.

In Salisbury Sunday, Tshombe warned that Katangans were ready to carry out a "scorched earth" campaign rather than submit to a political settlement imposed on them by force by the United Nations.

Despite his threat the secessionist leader was given a guarantee of freedom in his province from the UN.

Tshombe said he planned to rally Katangan forces for a long struggle against the UN even though the world organization has gained the upper hand in fighting with Katangan troops.

In Salisbury tonight Welensky said Tshombe came to Salisbury to seek his advice on "certain matters."

SEATTLE (AP)—A proposal by British Columbia Premier Bennett "opens up a new avenue for exploration" of the deadlocked Columbia River power development issue, a power company spokesman here says.

L. E. Karrer, vice-president of the Puget Sound Power and Light Company, commenting on the suggestion made by Bennett Saturday, said:

"It certainly offers more room for renegotiation than the five mills for power at the border. The five mills was impossible. The cost was prohibitive. Any other plan suggested is a step forward."

Mr. Bennett said at Kelowna his government would look at any formula which would build the proposed three big storage dams on the Columbia River in Canada, plus power facilities at Mica Creek, "at no cost to us."

He also told an interviewer his previous proposal for sale of Canada's share of downstream benefit Columbia power to the U.S. at five mills per kilowatt hour was not a rigid one.

A United States-Canada Columbia development treaty has been ratified by the United States, but not by Canada. Power officials say the three dams, by controlling floods, would allow more year-around power to be generated by dams in the United States and by the treaty terms Canada would get 50 per cent of the additional power.

"I wouldn't know if this alternative proposal is more feasible than the five mills," Karrer said.

"My feeling would be that a group, or groups, of utilities would see fit to get together to study the proposal. We are talking about hundreds of millions of dollars."

"I don't know what Premier Bennett's proposals would mean in terms of dollars, but a study would show that. Then, we would know if it will work."

Two City Longshoremen Die In Car Crash at Goldstream

DEATH-DEALING HIGHWAY STRETCH

Scene of second multiple traffic fatality in last 20 months is straight stretch just before gate to Gold-

8 Americans Hurt In Station Wagon

Two Victoria longshoremen were killed and eight visiting Americans hurt when their cars crashed almost head-on a few hundred yards from Goldstream entrance at 6:30 Sunday night.

The dead are George Weaver, 37, of 1222 Goldstream, and Gunnar Isomaa, 44, of 3942 Braefoot, who were driving north in Isomaa's car when it crossed to the opposite side of the highway and collided with a late model station wagon containing two families from Seattle area.

The deaths bring to six the number of people killed in highway crashes near the Malahat and Langford area since Dec. 15.

A total of 30 persons have died in traffic crashes in the Greater Victoria area south of the Malahat this year.

Members of the families from Bothell, Wash., a Seattle suburb, are:

Joseph Duffy Warrior, 39, a lieutenant commander from Sand Point U.S. Naval Air Station recruiting office, driver of a 1960 station wagon, who had a chest injury and was discharged from hospital;

girl, discharged with forehead injury;

Earl Kenyon, 46, admitted with face and head injury;

Mrs. Angela Kenyon, 38, admitted with serious left eye injury;

Laura Kenyon, six, abrasions, discharged;

Mrs. Kenyon is described by the hospital as most seriously injured. All are in satisfactory condition.

Mother Most Seriously Injured

Mrs. Wanda Lea Warrior, 37, admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with chest and face injury, a broken jaw and possible broken leg;

Kimberlee Warrior, 12, admitted to St. Joseph's with a broken nose and shoulder injury;

Kevin Warrior, 11 (a girl), admitted to hospital with face cuts;

Kristan Warrior, seven, (a

'Car Darted Across the Road'

Both the deceased had attended a meeting Sunday morning and were due to have returned to their homes at noon.

The accident happened at 6:30 p.m. and neither man, apparently, had been home in the interval.

Mrs. Isomaa, a nurses' aide at the hospital, was on duty when her husband was brought in.

Warrior told police today the two families in his car were returning to Victoria after a trip to Nanaimo.

"All of a sudden this car darted across the road in front of me and I hit the brakes. I don't know whether I'd stopped or not when the impact came."

Police said there was no indication of speed. The pavement was wet, it was not raining and there was only a slight overcast.

"There was no reason for it. You can't blame the road," a policeman said.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said an inquiry would be held.

The vehicles collided almost head-on, causing total damage, according to estimates.

Near Spot Where Seamen Killed

They met almost on the same spot as an accident between a small car and beer-laden semi-trailer truck that claimed the lives of three naval seamen April 28, 1961.

Three ambulances and private cars took the dead and injured to hospital.

The wrecks left traffic tied up for nearly an hour, police said.

There were no seat belts in the 1948 model sedan driven by Isomaa.

Speed limit in the highway zone including Goldstream Park entrance is 40 miles an hour.

Weaver, a longshoreman about five years, leaves the widow, Yvonne H., and three sons, aged eight to 15, at home.

Isomaa, a Finnish immigrant who came to Canada in 1951, had been a longshoreman about 10 years.

He leaves the widow, Aune, and two sons, Aekki, 17, and Keijo, 12, at home. There are his mother, five sisters and three brothers living in or near Jakobstad, Finland.

The Americans had been visiting Mrs. C. D. Macklin, 513 Head, whose daughter is Mrs. Kenyon.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

8th Victim Claimed By Boston Strangler

BOSTON (UPI)—A 23-year-old secretary was found strangled with a nylon stocking today in her apartment and became the eighth victim of a mad killer who has terrorized the city for six months.

The killer, who has strangled all his victims, struck less than a mile from the scene of a similar murder Dec. 5 and a clock away from his initial victim last June.

The nude body of Miss Patricia Bissette was discovered in her bed by a janitor.

Police Lt. John Donovan said she had been strangled with a stocking and an undergarment.

Dr. Michael A. Luongo, Suffolk County medical examiner, certified that death was due to strangulation.

Miss Bissette, like six of the other seven victims, lived alone. As in the other crimes, there was no sign of forced entry into her apartment.

Centennial Flashback...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

December 31

There are now 28 persons in Royal Hospital—eight more than the capacity of the institution. Seventeen patients are suffering from smallpox. Ladies in the city have banded together to start a fund which will defray the cost of constructing a female ward for the building, it was learned today.

The usual watchnight services of the Wesleyan community in Victoria will be held tonight in Dr. Evans' meeting house. Religious exercises will commence at 9 and last until midnight. The object of these services is to bring people to reflect on their past years on this earth and to form good resolutions for the future.

Mrs. Wilson Brown will open a school for young ladies on Rae Street shortly after the Christmas holidays.

Retail liquor licences were granted today to Mr. Thomas H. McCann, proprietor of the newly-opened Phoenix Saloon at the intersection of Fort and Douglas Streets.

Britain Reels Again From Punch of Winter

SNOWDRIFTS STRAND 150 IN QUEBEC

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—About 100 snowbound road travellers crowded in a restaurant about 12 miles east of here today, waiting for road-clearing crews fighting through a blizzard.

Another 50 odd persons, passengers on a Provincial transport bus bound from Quebec City to Montreal, also were stranded and sought refuge in a nearby hotel.

Restaurant owner Gilles Archambault said the travellers, about 15 of them children, spent the night sleeping on the floor and playing cards. Food ran out early this morning.

LONDON (CP)—More snow fell in parts of the British Isles today while in other sections thawing brought a threat of icy floods in the wake of the worst cold wave in 15 years.

Weekend blizzards that swept the United Kingdom left villages by the dozens cut off from the outside world.

In the northeast of England another six inches of snow fell during the night and high winds piled drifts 20 feet high. The weather also worsened in Scotland and five major roads were blocked.

"It is misery Monday on the roads," said a spokesman for the Royal Automobile Club. "Conditions are still impossible in many areas and in Scotland the situation is deteriorating."

Helicopters rescued about 70 persons trapped for two nights in a roadside cafe north of Dorchester in the southwest. They were stranded after they were forced to abandon two coaches at the height of the blizzard on Saturday night.

The food in the cafe held out, but milk supplies for a month-old baby were running short.

Hundreds of men worked through the night to knock the ice off railway and London subway system switches. Rail transportation was spotty, but most travellers were able to reach their destinations.

Temperatures stood just below freezing through most of Sunday. While no total snowfall figures were available, weather officials said it was the worst cold wave in Britain since 1947.

The big freeze spread over much of continental Europe, but rising temperatures in Austria and France brought the danger of avalanches around the crowded ski centres.

Southwestern England, hardest hit by the blizzard with snow drifts up to 20 feet deep, had heavy rain today which cleared the roads in a matter of hours.

Helicopters were used continuously Sunday to ferry supplies such as milk and animal fodder to isolated villages and houses in the area.

At least six deaths in Britain were attributed to the weather. They included the deaths of a man and his wife who froze to death in their car buried under a 15-foot snowdrift in a rural spot in Dorset.

Tractors were used to drag sleds laden with milk and food to householders on the Isle of Wight, off southern England. The milk was their first since Saturday.

Blizzard Hits Eastern Canada

By The Canadian Press

A storm wrought havoc across Quebec today, piling up snow and drifts and paralyzing traffic with 60-mile-an-hour winds.

Snow piled into 10-foot-high drifts on some highways. The provincial roads department reported every available man and piece of equipment at work.

Holiday travel plans for hundreds in the Quebec City region were disrupted by snow and winds. Many bus services were cancelled and all aircraft grounded.

In other centres gripped by the storm, police reported outbreaks of fires in homes, communications disrupted and power failures.

The blizzard hit Montreal hard. Temperatures were 13 degrees below zero.

A storm which pounded the Maritimes Sunday with snow and high winds weakened and was centred today in the Yarmouth N.S. area.

At Fredericton, N.B., a blizzard dumped more than 17 inches of snow. Power lines snapped and communications overland caused wide disruption.

Bitter cold hit central Canada during the weekend, sending the mercury to record low levels in some spots.

Overnight lows were records in Windsor, London, Toronto and North Bay. In North Bay the temperature early today

Schooner Returns With Dead Seamen

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A Newfoundland coastal schooner put into the south coast port of Marytown Sunday with the bodies of three seamen who died at the hands of a wild storm that put their vessel aground on the shore of the French island of Miquelon.

The vessel, James W. Wiscombe brought the five - man crew back to Marytown. Three of them were dead, one died of exposure before reaching shore, the others of the same cause after attempting a 10-mile walk from the bleak shore to the nearest settlement on the island off the Newfoundland south coast.

The Mary Wiscombe was on her way to North Sydney, N.S., to load coal when she was caught in a fierce blizzard off Miquelon. The sailors escaped in a dory, but Charles Scott of Burin, Nfld., perished in the freezing temperatures as the little boat made for shore.

The other four, all of the Marytown area reached shore safely. The skipper, Captain William Farrell, and engineer Thomas Walsh, walked through woods to the settlement of Point Platte late Friday. But Albert Hillier and George Brushell were unable to continue the walk. They were dead when search parties reached them.

The vessel, owned by J. W. Wiscombe and Sons of Marytown, was a total loss.

After the Ball, Some Permanent Reminders

By JOHN MIKA

Exactly one year ago tonight former Mayor Percy Scurrah and Mayor R. B. Wilson turned on centennial year.

Buttons were pushed to light the floodlamps outside City Hall, floodlamps at Craigdarroch Castle and at the Rockland water tower "candle."

On Douglas Street, 100 cluster light standards were dressed with plastic "candelabra" decorations. During the ensuing year, the outstanding event marking the centenary was city council's decision—subsequently ratified by ratepayers—to develop Centennial Victoria Square.

Achieved Goals

Although the year got off to a bad start—running through two committees and two co-ordinators before settling down with a professional promotion company and Ald. Michael Griffin calling the signals—the campaign achieved virtually all its goals.

Part of the exhilaration—at least as reflected at City Hall—came from the first glimmerings of a turning point in the city's history as numerous civic revitalization programs were proposed and won acceptance. This added an extra fillip to the whole year and gave it the extra dimension of looking forward to the next century as well as honoring the past.

Brought Closer

The celebrations helped bring Victorians a little closer together and strengthened their community spirit as well as making various economic sectors more prosperous from the influx of tourists.

This was pointed up by the large attendance at all centennial events, despite the fact the whole celebration was operated under the shadow of the Seattle world's fair.

There are many permanent reminders, left of the centenary and many more, memories of colorful events, too.

60,000 Attended

Here are only a sampling of them:

A total of 60,000 persons went to see the three main spectator attractions organized by the centennial committee in Royal Athletic Park—the historical pageant with a cast of 1,000; the famed RCMP Musical Ride, and the loggers' sports show.

Biggest single day of the year was Aug. 2—the actual centenary—when city council members served breakfast to citizens in front of City Hall, later announced the civic precinct project, and attended the centennial bonfire.

Colors Presented

A visit by HRH the Princess Mary to present colors to the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) at a spectacular military ceremony.

Neighborhoodness was shown by the outside municipalities in the form of a country-style birthday party tendered by Saanich and a tea party in Oak Bay.

Total of 62 riders set off on a 100-mile ride over rough country to Shawnigan Lake as the Garden City Horsemen's Club salute to the centennial and the "cowboys" wound up in style by riding into town to the City Hall steps.

Another salute was given the city by the Royal Canadian Navy which organized sea-going and static demonstrations at and off Beacon Hill Park for three days.

Almost 400 pioneers from 1887 were located and given special treats during the year including a Government House garden party, pioneers' banquet in the Empress Hotel and presentation of bronze centennial medals struck for Victoria Numismatic Society, a lawn tea at historic Craigflower School and a special service at the pioneer Church of Our Lord.

Those are among the multitude of memories but there also are permanent reminders of the big celebration.

Parade of Ships

The "parade of ships" on the Causeway leaves 24 bronze plaques commemorating the arrival of some important pioneers on early ships; the bronze and silver medals; a special issue postage stamp for philatelists' collections;

The graceful fountain behind the Legislative Buildings; the Rockland water tower "candle" and flood-lighting systems for Craigdarroch and City Hall; a new marker on the Ross Bay grave of Sir James Douglas—and last, a few bearded men.

DISTINCTIVE centennial decorations were the plastic "candelabra" that dressed up 100 cluster light standards on Douglas Street. The white cylinders have been stored in case they may be wanted again as seasonal decorations—perhaps with Christmas decal. Also an important part of the centennial "night line" was flood-lighting of Craigdarroch Castle.

Drug, Liquor Thefts At Colwood, Sidney

The entire stock of narcotics in two Colwood drug stores was stolen in the most recent of 18 reported break-ins since last Thursday night.

The Sidney liquor store also was robbed of several cases of liquor and beer over the weekend.

Colwood RCMP are searching for addicts or pushers who are believed to have made off with the supply of narcotics from Colwood Pharmacy, 301 Goldstream, and Belmont Drugs, in the Colwood Shopping Plaza.

LOCKED CABINETS

The drugs in each case were kept in locked cabinets, which the culprits jimmied open.

Both thefts are believed to have occurred early this morning.

Police said entrance to Colwood Pharmacy was gained by smashing open a rear door.

The thieves also tried unsuccessfully to jimmy open the rear door of Belmont Drugs, finally gaining entrance through a side window, which was smashed.

No cash was taken from the drug stores, and no other damage was done during the break-ins.

The exact amount of drugs stolen has not yet been determined.

Police also said the value of the drugs was difficult to gauge because of the difference in the retail value and the "going price" in the underground market.

Two men were spotted jumping from the window of the Sidney liquor store about 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

POLICEMAN CLOSE
RCMP Constable E. Dedich was driving up to the store after receiving a report of a suspicious car near the premises, when he saw the men. They fled on foot down an alley.

Behind them on the street they left several smashed bottles of liquor and beer.

Exact quantity of the liquor stolen has not been determined yet, but it is known several cases of beer are missing.

The thieves smashed a front window in the store with five rocks, before climbing in.

It is believed they drove off in a small English car.

BESIDE BED
About 3:30 a.m. today, 17-year-old Chris Vanderstoep awoke to find a man standing beside his bed set up in Centennial United Church, 649 Gorge.

Chris, recently discharged from the army, was staying with his parents, his father being caretaker of the church.

The young Vanderstoep pretended to be asleep until the intruder left his room, after stealing the wallet out of his trousers pocket.

RAN FOR HELP
He watched while the man left the church by the David Street entrance, and then ran next door to his father's house.

Police found the thief had tried unsuccessfully to force the main door to the church, and had finally entered by the side door.

He had used collection envelopes and other church papers as torches to light his way through the building, which,

FULL-MEASURE HOLIDAYS FOR STUDENTS AT EASTER

Pupils return to school Thursday after a shortened Christmas holiday.

But they can look forward to a regular-length Easter holiday. It will run from Good Friday, April 12, to April 22.

This year's Christmas holiday, which began Dec. 25, was cut down two days from the normal period as a result of Chant royal commission on educational recommendations for a longer school year.

Fire Destroys House Trailer

Damages exceeding $12,000 were caused by two fires in the Duncan area Sunday.

The first involved a house trailer and its contents, completely destroyed by a fire which broke out at 3:30 a.m.

The owner, G. E. Crookshank, and his family were in Vancouver at the time.

Estimated value of the trailer was $10,000.

Fire Chief Pat Clarkson believes the blaze started from a defective oil heater.

Prompt action by the fire department prevented the destruction of a moving van owned by Blue and White Movers of Victoria.

The van, en route from Sprout Lake to Victoria with a load of furniture, was stopped by a passing motorist at James Street and the Trans-Canada Highway when smoke and flames belched from its rear doors.

The van pulled into a nearby service station where firemen put out the fire.

Damages, estimated at $2,000, was confined to mattresses, furniture and other household goods.

It is believed the fire started from an interior light which either shorted or radiated sufficient heat to start the blaze.

Fulton Asked To Run Here

Federal Works Minister E. Davie Fulton likely will be invited to run for Victoria in the next provincial election when the local Progressive Conservative Association meets here next Thursday.

"He would be welcomed with open arms," said Alex Reed, president of the association, "but the official invitation to Mr. Fulton will not be made before our Thursday meeting."

Mr. Reed was commenting on a statement by Mr. Fulton in Quesnel that he has been invited to run for Victoria. He said he imagined Mr. Fulton had already been invited by individual members.

"It would be very appropriate if he ran as candidate for the capital city of British Columbia in a three-member riding."

"But I am sure he would be most welcome in any of the Greater Victoria ridings."

At Quesnel, where he ended a tour of northern British Columbia Sunday, Mr. Fulton said in a press conference he has been invited to run in four different constituencies—Victoria, Vancouver, Kamloops and Salmon Arm.

All others by invitation only.

The sergeants' mess will be open to associate members, ex-officers of the mess, members of the armed forces in uniform. All other by invitation only.

KEY PIECE in Victoria's centennial year "night line" was floodlighting of repainted City Hall. Photo above shows how it stood out as the central landmark of city at night as well as by day. Floodlighting system will be kept permanently for use on special occasions and during holiday periods.

MONTE ROBERTS

Some constituents seem to think I was kidding a couple of weeks ago, when I made a piteous plea to

Save the Poolroom

What prompted this plea was the fact our city fathers are toying with the idea of permitting ladies to enter poolrooms, thus destroying one of the last citadels of male aloofness.

But my piteous plea seems to have fallen on contemptuous ears. Even as I said at the outset, some of my very own constituents thought I was kidding.

Well, I wasn't. And as evidence, consider what has already happened in dear old Ontario.

As reported by Harry Bruce in the impeccably accurate Maclean's Magazine, poolrooms in Toronto and Hamilton now have broadloom floors, peach and plum walls, and drapes.

They also have indirect lighting, piped-in music of a semi-classical nature, and ashtrays. No gaboons. Table tops in these poolrooms, which are now called "studios" and "academies" now come in six ingratiating shades, including tangerine. And swearing is verboten, on the penalty of exile.

As Mr. Bruce sums it up: "The new pool halls look like big, suburban recreation rooms."

Sherwood Lanés in Hamilton (remember when one went bowling on an alley?) has two snooker tables set aside behind folding doors for those who would pursue the ivory spheres in privacy. (The same establishments accept reservations, and this is hard to take—has a female at the cash register.)

To top it all off, the proprietors (or should I say perpetrators?) of these establishments frankly confess that, as far as women customers are concerned, billiards is a Togetherness game.

And you wonder why I sent forth the piteous cry:

Save the Poolroom

It is obviously too late. What has happened in Toronto and Hamilton has spread to Vancouver and CAN happen here.

But let us stop this female encroachment before even the time-hallowed stag party goes co-educational.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Guest speaker, E. R. Etheridge will speak on the topic, "Up From the Sea and Down to Earth."

Q What is the population of Vancouver Island? E.B.

A Vancouver Island's listed population at the last census was 293,077. This does not include the Gulf Islands.

Q How does one polish slates on a fireplace hearth? D.M.B.

A If you wish to preserve the natural beauty of the slates, it is not recommended that they be polished. Your fireplace can be kept attractive by washing the slates with ordinary soap and water and then giving it a coat of slate sealer to prevent dust from settling.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Empress Hotel employees have accepted a conciliation board award but there is no word if management will also accept and thus end the long-standing labor dispute.

The award recommends a four-cent-an-hour increase instead of the five cents originally asked by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

It will be retroactive to March 1, 1962, and continue to March 1, 1963. Other benefits suggested would adjust wage rates in certain categories to bring them in line with what the union claims is the going rate in this area.

The League of Roses (Lancaster), will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in Loughheed Hall.

Election of officers will be held.

More than 2,000 Roman Catholics and non-Catholics from all parts of Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, attended a reception given by Bishop Remi De Roo of Victoria in the Empress Hotel Sunday afternoon.

The line-up of guests, extended from the side entrance to the hotel through the lobby and lounge to the Crystal Ballroom.

Guests were introduced to the new bishop by Father Michael O'Connell and A. F. Fitz, of Victoria. Messages of greeting were given by Agriculture Minister Frank Richter, on behalf of Premier Bennett, and by Ald. A. W. Toome, for the Mayor of Victoria.

Classes in judo for young women are among several new courses to be introduced by the YMCA during the week of Jan. 17.

Other new activities include courses in fashion design, badminton, landscaping and gardening, guitar playing, art, jazz and square dancing.

'Youth Bonds' Sold By Boy Politicians

The 32nd annual Older Boys' Parliament prorogued in the legislature today after voting through a record budget of $3,297 for the promotion of boys' work during the coming year.

The 68 sitting members, including five from Victoria, approved this sum by giving final reading to the Supply Act.

Most of the money will be raised by the sale of bonds, which are termed "an investment in youth."

"Our movement is spreading rapidly and our membership is coming from a greater area of the province than ever before," said David Bennett of Vancouver, who is known as minister of devotions and provincial secretary.

The parliament was pro-rogued by "Lieutenant-Governor" William J. Rose of Vancouver after "Premier" Scott Van Alstine of Burnaby called for a united effort during the coming year.

The five Victorians taking part were Dave MacLean, Brian Smith, Glen Downey, Frank Basham and Bruce Hardy.

They supported a resolution, sponsored by the 35-member observer group, that the minister of publications obtain information on alcohol education for distribution among members.

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga province arrived today at Kopena, 120 miles west of Elisabethville, a Katanga government spokesman announced.

Tshombe flew into Kopena from Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, where he had talks with Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky of the Rhodesian federation.

He landed less than 24 hours after United Nations planes entered Kopena, airfield and reported they had destroyed air installations and a training plane.

In Salisbury Sunday, Tshombe warned that Katangans were ready to carry out a "scorched earth" campaign rather than submit to a political settlement imposed on them by force by the United Nations.

Despite his threat the secessionist leader was given a guarantee of freedom in his province from the UN.

Tshombe said he planned to rally Katangan forces for a long struggle against the UN even though the world organization has gained the upper hand in fighting with Katangan troops.

In Salisbury tonight Welensky said Tshombe came to Salisbury to seek his advice on "certain matters."

GOLDSTREAM CRASH
KILLS TWO CITY MEN

DEATH-DEALING HIGHWAY STRETCH

8 Americans Hurt
In Station Wagon

Two Victoria longshoremen were killed and eight visiting Americans hurt when their cars crashed almost head-on a few hundred yards from the Goldstream Park entrance to the Trans-Canada Highway at 6:30 Sunday night.

The dead are George Weaver, 31, of 1222 Goldstream, and Gunnar Isomaa, 44, of 3942 Braefoot, who were driving north in Isomaa's car when it crossed to the opposite side of the highway and collided with a late model station wagon containing two families from Seattle area.

The deaths bring to six the number of people killed in highway crashes near the Malahat and Langford area since Dec. 15.

A total of 30 persons have died in traffic crashes in the Greater Victoria area south of the Malahat this year.

Members of the families from Bothell, Wash., a Seattle suburb, are:

Joseph Duff Warrior, 39, a lieutenant commander from Sand Point U.S. Naval Air Station recruiting office, driver of a 1960 station wagon, who had a chest injury and was discharged from hospital;

Mother Most Seriously Injured

Mrs. Wanda Lea Warrior, 37, admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with chest and face injury, a broken jaw and possible broken leg.

Kimberlea Warrior, 12, admitted to St. Joseph's with a broken nose and shoulder injury.

Kevin Warrior, 11 (a girl), admitted to hospital with face cuts.

Kristan Warrior, seven, (a girl), discharged with forehead injury.

Earl Kenyon, 46, admitted with face and head injury.

Mrs. Angela Kenyon, 38, admitted with serious left eye injury.

Laura Kenyon, six, abrasions, discharged.

Mrs. Kenyon is described by the hospital as most seriously injured. All are in satisfactory condition.

'Car Darted Across the Road'

Both the deceased had attended a meeting Sunday morning and were due to have returned to their homes at noon.

The accident happened at 6:30 p.m. and neither man, apparently, had been home in the interval.

Mrs. Isomaa, a nurses' aide at the hospital, was on duty when her husband was brought in.

Warrior told police today the two families in his car were returning to Victoria after a trip to Nanaimo.

"All of a sudden this car darted across the road in front of me and I hit the brakes. I don't know whether I'd stopped, or not when the impact came."

Police said there was no indication of speed. The pavement was wet, it was not raining and there was only a slight overcast.

"There was no reason for it when her husband was brought in."

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said an inquiry would be held.

The vehicles collided almost head-on, causing total damage, according to estimates.

Near Spot Where Seamen Killed

They met almost on the same spot as an accident between a small car and beer-laden semi-trailer truck that claimed the lives of three naval seamen April 28, 1961.

Three ambulances and private cars took the dead and injured to hospital.

The weeks left traffic tied up for nearly an hour, police said.

There were no seat belts in the 1948 model sedan driven by Isomaa.

Speed limit in the highway zone including Goldstream Park entrance is 40 miles an hour.

Weaver, a longshoreman about five years, leaves the widow, Yvonne H., and three sons, aged eight to 15, at home.

Isomaa, a Finnish immigrant who came to Canada in 1951, had been a longshoreman about 10 years.

He leaves the widow, Aune, and two sons, Aekki, 17, and Keijo, 12, at home. There are his mother, five sisters and three brothers living in or near Jakobstad, Finland.

The Americans had been visiting Mrs. C. D. Mackie, 513 Head, whose daughter is Mrs. Kenyon.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

STRAND 150
IN QUEBEC

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—About 100 snowbound road travellers crowded in a restaurant about 12 miles east of here today, waiting for road-clearing crews fighting through a blizzard.

Another 50 odd persons, passengers on a Provincial transport bus bound from Quebec City to Montreal, also were stranded and sought refuge in a nearby hotel.

Restaurant owner Gilles Archambault said the travellers, about 15 of them children, spent the night sleeping on the floor and playing cards. Food ran out early this morning.

The food in the cafe held out, but milk supplies for a month-old baby were running short.

LONDON (CP)—More snow fell in parts of the British Isles today while in other sections thawing brought a threat of icy floods in the wake of the worst cold wave in 15 years.

Weekend blizzards that swept the United Kingdom left villages by the dozens cut off from the outside world.

In the northeast of England another six inches of snow fell during the night and high winds piled drifts 20 feet high. The weather also worsened in Scotland and five major roads were blocked.

"It is misery Monday on the roads," said a spokesman for the Royal Automobile Club. "Conditions are still impossible in many areas and in Scotland the situation is deteriorating."

Helicopters rescued about 70 persons trapped for two nights in a roadside cafe north of Dorchester in the southwest. They were stranded after they were forced to abandon two coaches at the height of the blizzard on Saturday night.

Roads likely will be wet to night and there's an outside chance they will be slicked with a touch of frost, weather man William Mackie warned partygoers.

Columbia
Offer Popular
In U.S.

SEATTLE (AP)—A proposal by British Columbia, Premier Bennett "opens up a new avenue for exploration of the deadlocked Columbia River power development issue, a power company spokesman here says."

L. E. Karrer, vice-president of the Puget Sound Power and Light Company, commenting on the suggestion made by Bennett Saturday, said:

"It certainly offers more room for negotiation than the five mills for power at the border. The five mills was impossible. The cost was prohibitive."

"Any other plan suggested, is a step forward."

Mr. Bennett said at Kelowna his "government" would look at any formula which would build the proposed three big storage dams on the Columbia River in Canada, plus power facilities at Mica Creek, "at no cost to us."

He also told an interviewer his previous proposal for sale of Canada's share of Weststream benefit-Columbia power to the U.S. at five mills per kilowatt hour was not a rigid one.

A United States-Canada Columbia development treaty has been ratified by the United States, but not by Canada. Power officials say the three dams, by controlling floods, would allow more year-around power to be generated by dams in the United States and by the treaty terms Canada would get 50 per cent of the additional power.

"I wouldn't know if this alternative proposal is more feasible than the five mills," Karrer said.

"My feeling would be that a group, or groups, of utilities would see fit to get together to study the proposal. We are talking about hundreds of millions of dollars."

"I don't know what Premier Bennett's proposals would mean in terms of dollars, but a study would show that. Then, we would know if it will work."
